FOUR ILLINOIS AIRMEN DIE IN PLUNGE

THREE SUSPECTS PLACED IN PRISON ON ARRIVAL HERE

Trio, Brought to Lincoln from Chicago In Special Car Under Heavy Guard, Will Be Arraigned in Municipal Court This Week—Hoping to Try Bank Robbery Charges in June—Accused Expected to Ask Separate Trials.

With sirens wailing reminiscent of that day last September when a gangster band sped south out of Lincoln with $2,800,000 loot from the Lincoln National Bank & Trust Co., a heavily-armed motor convoy Tuesday morning rushed three men charged with participating in the robbery from the Burlington station to the state penitentiary.

Lodged in the jail building at the state prison, Tommy O'Connor, Howard Lee and Jack Britt, defeated in their legal fight to prevent return to Lincoln, face a swift trial, Deputy County Attorney Farley Young announced shortly after the three gangsters arrived in Lincoln from Chicago in a special car attached to the Ak-Sar-Ben train.

The alleged bandit trio will be arraigned in Municipal court either Wednesday or Thursday, Young stated. A District court jury panel has been called for June 8, at which time every effort will be made to try the accused men. If unable to try the cases at that time, arrangements have been made to call another panel for Jun 29. The gangsters are expected to demand separate trials.

Seven Officers On Train.

Save for a scare at Burlington, Ia., Monday night, the dash from Chicago to Lincoln was uneventful. At Burlington three hoboes picked the wrong train on which to bum a ride, the affair serving to enliven the tense journey. Seven officers formed the gangsters' guard from Chicago to Lincoln. Accompanying Sheriff Claude P. Hensel were the "four horsemen," the Illinois officers who staged the sensational raid in East St. Louis May 8, and who have stayed with the case since, and two Burlington special agents.

The reception at the station lacked only a band to complete the gala atmosphere. Nearly 200 persons jammed the station including Mayor Frank C. Zehrung and other prominent citizens. Governor Charles W. Bryan added another official touch to the occasion, when he arrived at the penitentiary a few moments after the hoodlums passed through the barred doors to the receiving room.

TWO KILLED IN TRIAL SPIN FOR 500-MILE RACE

Driver Caccia and Mechanic in Fatal Crash At Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 26—(AP)—Joe Caccia, 31, Bryn Mawr, Pa., race driver, and Clarence Grove, 23, Hverford, Pa., his mechanic, were killed here today while practicing for the 500-mile automobile race to be run Saturday.

Their car, running at high speed out of the second turn into the back stretch, lost a tire, careened up the track and over the retaining wall, striking a tree before hitting the ground many feet below.

The men were partially caught under the machine, which burst into flames. Physicians said Grove apparently died immediately, while Caccia expired a few minutes after fire fighters and other persons reached the wreckage.

Caccia lived at Forty-eight

HORSES ARRIVE HERE FOR SHOW

Entries From All Parts Of Country Sent To Lincoln.

Fifteen Different Events On Program For Each Performance.

BY LULU MAE COE.

If you'd been out with me this morning, you would order a dozen horse show tickets before another dawn, and take all the uncles and the cousins and the aunts who had not shown your purchasing discernment.

Entries for the third annual Lincoln Horse show, which is to be the greatest and grandest affair of the week, began arriving late Monday and early Tuesday, and the fair ground stables are certainly housing the most beautiful visiting horses seen in this community since the days of teepees.

The show is scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings, withmatinees Friday and Saturday. Each program has fifteen different events, and each performance is different from the others, with the exception of the specialty acts. One of the cleverest of these acts is the rodeo event of Lorraine and Ralph Graham, ten and nine years old, from Kansas. The youngsters give an amazing wild west performance on their ponies, stage a chariot race, and jump their mounts through a ring of flame.

Good Heavy Harness Class.

Just to hear of it is to know you can't resist. For the first time, in Lincoln, the heavy harness class has gorgeous entries. Heavy harness to me sounded like the ice wagon team—but don.t be misled. Heavy harness horses are those magnificent, high-stepping, bob-tailed, glis-

It also is urged in the resolution that the successful contractor must agree to use only Lincoln labor. The resolution is signed by H. R. Jobst, president of the Builders' bureau.

NEBRASKA GIRL SPELLER LOSES

Margaret Morrow Out of National Meet On "Cataract."

WASHINGTON BUREAU LINCOLN STAR

WASHINGTON, May 26 — The word "cataract" proved a stumbling block in the progress of Nebraska's champion speller in the seventh annual national spelling bee held here Tuesday.

Little red headed, thirteen year old Margaret Morrow of Omaha spelled twenty-three difficult words correctly, then spelled her twenty-fourth "cataract," to be honorably eliminated with a $30 prize due her as the fourteenth of twenty-three competitors to miss.

She won the state contest with the word "felicific."

ALL BUILDINGS ON ONE SQUARE

Ground Plot Submitted To City Councilmen By Architects.

New Municipal Structure Is To Face On Tenth Street.

The fire, police and health building, the municipal gasoline station, and a garage for the water and light department, and all city passenger cars, will be located on Market square, according to a ground plot submitted to the city council for approval Tuesday, by Walter Wilson of Davis & Wilson, architects in charge of the construction of the new municipal building. The scales and office also will be there. Whether the new quarters for street department equipment will be located there is a matter that remains to be determined by the council at another conference with Mr. Wilson.

Under the tentative plan submitted by Mr. Wilson the new municipal building will face Tenth street. It will be two stories high, and set back from the lot line at least twenty-five feet. The fire department will be in the south section, the police in the center, and the health at the north end. This will give the health department a private entrance on the north end. The fire department will have exit on Q street with ample room for a run either east or west on Q or south on Tenth when necessary.

The doors of the fire department will be at least 48 feet from the lot line, and a similar situation will prevail at the north end at the entrance to the health department.

Governor Finds It Difficult To Get Look at Gangsters

Governor Charles W. Bryan experienced almost as much difficulty in getting into the penitentiary as most men do in getting out, when the chief executive arrived at the prison to extend an official "welcome," to the three East St. Louis gangsters Tuesday morning. Arriving a few minutes after the cavalcade, the governor found himself on the outside looking in, along with several lesser personages unable to crash the gate. It was sometime before he was able to attract the attention of an official, who summoned the turnkey, and admitted Mr. Bryan to the enclosure where the gangsters were surrounded by guards, newspapermen and photographers.

Another amusing incident occurred at the railway station when Deputy State Sheriff Fred Benton grew suspicious of two men loitering on the outskirts of the crowd. One of the men under the eye of the officer and noticed that they had fallen asked the officer if he thought they looked like gangsters. "You never can tell," laughed the officer. "You look well enough dressed to be gangsters."

HOWARD COUNTY MAN ENDS LIFE

Makes Murderous Attack Upon Sister Before Suicide.

Nelson Said to Have Been Subject Insanity Fits.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., May 26—(AP)—Andrew Nelson shot and killed himself today after making what may have been a fatal attack on his elder sister, Nellie Nelson. The tragedy occurred at their farm home near Dannebrog. Neighbors said Nelson had been subject to fits of insanity for years.

Miss Nelson was brought to a Grand Island hospital.

The weapon with which he attacked his sister was not found at once, but investigators believed he used an ax.

Walter Delahoyde of Grand Island, an electrician, discovered her body when he went to the farm this morning to do some work. He notified County Attorney W. F. Spikes and Sheriff E. G. Higley.

They found the kitchen blood spattered. There were no signs of a struggle. Apparently the woman had been attacked from behind as she was preparing bacon for breakfast.

Giving Miss Nelson emergency treatment, they rushed her to the hospital here.

Search revealed Nelson's body in the barn, a bullet wound in the head.

Miss Nelson is about 40 years old. Her brother was several years

SCHOOLS TO ASK LEVY INCREASE

Need For More Money to Be Explained in Pamphlet.

Annexation of suburbs has brought financial difficulties to the board of education, it was brought out Tuesday morning when the board met, and more revenue must be forthcoming or the children of the schools are going to meet with unfair treatment. This was emphasized in a bulletin which Superintendent Lefler was authorized to distribute. In it Dr. B. F. Bailey emphasizes that "the board will present to the people some time during the coming year a proposal designed to meet the situation."

The bulletin is captioned "Annexation Brings Financial Difficulty." It points out that before annexation of the surburbs high levies were required in those districts to keep the schools operating. Annexation automatically reduced these levies, nearly one-third, he says, making revenues "grossly inadequate. Lincoln must supply this shortage through additional revenue to prevent impairment of the school program.

CAPITOL GETS DAKOTA PRAISE

Commissioners Planning New Structure View Nebraska Building.

Statehouse Here First To Be Examined; Is Highly Lauded.

Nebraska's capitol, famed throughout the United States and the world for its twentieth century architecture and its elaborate carvings, murals, and mosaics, is the first one to be visited by members of the North Dakota capitol commission in their search for a suitable design to to follow in the construction of a new seat of government for their state.

Two of the three commissioners from North Dakota, with the secretary of that body, spent Tuesday in Lincoln viewing the interior and exterior of the capitol and conferring with its builders. They were enthusiastic in their praise of the structure, declaring that Nebraska has given the world a new and splendid type of monumental edifice that exemplifies the progressive spirit of the age.

EXTRA SESSION TO MEET JUNE 9

Bryan Still Delays His Official Call But Indicates Plan.

Governor To Supplement Official Budget With New Suggestions.

Tuesday, June 9, at 11 a. m., is the time when the Nebraska legislature will be called to convene in special session, according to Governor Bryan's present intention. The governor has not yet issued his formal call, but he indicated to newspaper men Tuesday forenoon that the date and hour will be as stated above.

While the constitution provides that regular meetings of the lawmaking assembly shall start at noon on the first Tuesday of January, it does not fix any definite day of the week or hour of the day for extra sittings. That is left entirely to the governor.

It has been Governor Bryan's proposal all along to have the session begin during the second week of June. He chose Tuesday, instead of Monday, as the opening date so that members from remote parts of the state could spend Sunday at their homes before leaving for Lincoln. The 11 o'clock time for convening will allow those within 150 miles of the capitol to drive in or come on trains or busses the same morning.

No time will be lost in organization, as both branches have their regular corps of officers and employes, who will be on hand to carry on the routine work. However, committees will be named to call on the governor and notify him that the legislature is ready for business. A joint session will be arranged for

As Rogers Sees It

HOLLYWOOD, May 26—The "ill will" mayors' trip to France was in another mess Saturday. The bells of Rouen played the Star Spangled Banner, but the southern mayors would not move till they played "Dixie." Los Angeles held out for "California, Here I Come" and Maine for the Stein song. We better start a fund to get those boys back home and away from banquet tables before July Fourth or they will have us in another war. This little article of mine is used in the Paris Herald, so the funds will easily be raised by patriotic Frenchmen. And bring Chaplin home with 'em, too. I want to hereby apologize for our Los Angeles mayor. He was not discourteous in not touching the glass to his lips. He just couldn't trust himself with it that close.

GENERAL GRAVEL RATE CUT ASKED

State Rail Commission Refuses Advantage To Single Firm.

An attempt to secure reduced gravel freight rates which would for the most part benefit only one large gravel producer in the state was blocked Monday by the state railway commission after hearing extensive protests from other gravel men.

As a result of the railroad move to secure more favorable rates for the one large producer, the commission ordered a new hearing, at which time all Nebraska railroads will be asked to show cause why there should not be a general reduction of gravel rates throughout the state. It will be held June 5.

After an extensive discussion of the reductions asked by the Burlington, which their rate expert, F. Montmorency, claimed would enable the road to compete with trucks, C. A. Randall chairman of the railway commission delivered the question that marked the keynote of the commission's final attitude.

"If these rates will be remunerative," he asked, "why not put them in all along the line?"

"Because they aren't necessary at all places," Montmorency said.

Chairman Randall charged at this point in the hearing Monday afternoon that railroad rates were being made for the benefit of some specific party without regard to public interest. He indicated that he would be favorable to a proposal for a percentage reduction in rates.

J. A. Little, rate counsel, representing the Lyman-Richey Sand & Gravel Co., which would have been the chief beneficiary, of the proposed reductions, objected to a percentage cut. He declared such a step would give long haul gravel shippers a greater advantage and thus disturb present relations of shippers.

Throughout, the afternoon hearing, representatives of the Burlington and the Lyman-Richey company attempted to justify their request for reductions only at specific points of origin on the ground that truck competition could be met in no other way.

"We want the tonnage on our rails," Montmorency declared frankly at one point. Clyde E. Curtis, assistant sales manager for the Lyman-Richey company, gave extensive testimony, showing how his company had been able to make contracts conditional on lower freight rates because contractors otherwise could get the gravel delivered more cheaply by truck.

Other gravel men objected to specific reductions on the ground that it would put them at a competitive disadvantage with the Lyman-Richey company and such others as might get special rates. Under cross-examination, Curtis admitted that to meet competition of roadside plants, gravel men would have to have a general rail rate reduction. He also admitted that the proposed rates were based not only on trucking competition but on cost of production.

8 Year Old Boy Dozes On Rail Tracks

Passing Truck Driver Saves Elmer Meyers As Train Nears.

A chronic case of spring fever nearly proved fatal to Elmer Meyers, age 8, late Monday afternoon.

Following an irksome afternoon in the schoolroom, Elmer, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Meyers, 924 Rose street, and his pal, Howard Cota, planned a rendezvous for about 5:20 o'clock in the vicinity of the Burlington tracks at Third and A streets. Just what was to be done when the two met was to be decided later.

Elmer arrived at the appointed spot at few minutes before schedule and sat down to wait for his buddie. For no apparent reason, Elmer sat on one of the steel rails, placing his elbows on his knees and resting his chin in the palms of his hands. The afternoon sun was warm. Elmer waited a few minutes but spring was too much. He dozed.

At 4:40 o'clock Ruben Gettman and Harold Gerlach, delivery men for the H. J. Amen store, were making the rounds of customers. As usual, they heard the westbound Burlington passenger train No. 40 whistling for the grade crossing at Third and A streets.

Runs for Engine.

Instinctively the two young men glanced toward the approaching train and saw Elmer still asleep on the track, despite the frantic blowing of the engine whistle.

"We didn't know what to do," young Gerlach said in telling of the scene. "We started hollering but that didn't phase the kid at first. When he finally did come to, he jumped up and ran right for the engine—right down the middle of the track." Gerlach concluded that Elmer was excited.

In the meantime the delivery men had left their truck and began running for the boy. Gettman finally succeeded in reaching the lad and jerking him from the rails just as the engine thundered in front of them.

Although Elmer was considerably excited about the incident, he insisted on waiting for his chum who was still absent. It was only by forcible persuasion that Gettman and Gerlach induced the boy to let them take him home.

KENTUCKY BANK PRESIDENT FREE

J. B. Brown is Acquitted Of Embezzling Two Million Note.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 26—(AP)—James B. Brown, former president of Bancokentucky company, was free today of a charge of embezzlement in connection with endorsement of a $2,000,000 note to the company. The trial of Charles F. Jones, former vice president, indicted on the same charge, was set for June 9 after Brown's acquittal.

Defense attorneys said the charge against Jones should be dismissed since the principal was acquitted. Commonwealth Attorney W. Clarke Otte said his office would look into the charge before the trial date.

The jury that tried Brown's case deliberated three hours and twenty minutes. A half hour before returning the verdict, the jurors notified the court they were deadlocked, but were instructed by Judge A. T. Burgerin to continue deliberating. The defense presented no testimony during the trial.

The indictments were based on a note Brown executed to his brokers, Wakefield & Co., and which subsequently was endorsed to the Bancokentucky company, of which Brown was president. Brown also is president of the closed National Bank of Kentucky and publisher of the Louisville Herald-Post, now being operated by a receiver in bankruptcy.

HYDE HOPING TO CUT EXPENSES

Orders Survey Made of Expenditures For Agriculture.

Main Savings Will Be In Termination of Two Emergency Items.

WASHINGTON, May 26 — (AP) — The searchlight of economy has been turned by Secretary Hyde on agriculture department expenditures.

A considerable cut is in prospect through termination of two emergency items administered by the department—drouth relief and highway construction. These totaled $160,000,000, providing aid to stricken farmers and jobs for unemployed on road building.

As for the regular operating expenses, Hyde foresees little opportunity of paring expenses without curtailing important services.

Anticipates Hoover Order.

The secretary has not yet been officially advised by the president that his department will be called on to offer suggestions for economies, but he has ordered a survey with that in view.

The department's total appropriation for the present fiscal year is $370,000,000, including the $160,000,000 emergency money. Also a part of the total was $109,000,000 for regular federal highway aid and $11,000,000 for forest roads and trails. The remaining $90,000,000 went to running expenses, the extension service, land grant colleges and similar agencies.

Federal Aid Fund Increased.

For the 1932 fiscal year, beginning July 1, $225,000,000 has been appropriated, of which $137,000,000 is for federal aid highways and forest reads. Congress increased the federal aid allotment from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 to help the idle.

Drouth loans will be collected from farmers next fall when their crops are harvested. States which have borrowed from the $80,000,000 emergency highway fund will repay the money over a five-year period through deductions from their regular shares of federal aid.

After deducting extension service and land grant college funds, between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 remains for the department's actual expenses. Secretary Hyde said attempts to reduce this would be extremely difficult unless services are restricted. The work accomplished by such agencies as the weather bureau, he added, has been regarded as invaluable and not likely to be curtailed.

IMPEACHMENT OF GOVERNOR ASKED

Resolution Attacking the Tennessee Executive Before Legislature.

Investigation of Investigators of State Affairs Also Urged.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 26—(AP)—The legislature is being asked to investigate its investigators of state affairs and also to consider a resolution for appointment of a committee to determine if Gov. Henry H. Horton should be impeached.

The moves both for and against the administration followed a report of the legislative investigating committee yesterday which charged that Horton had been largely dominated by Col. Luke Lea, newspaper publisher and politician, and Rogers Caldwell, fallen financier. A minority of the committee, however, said the majority had listened only to "such facts, hearsays, suspicions and conclusions" that would promote "their plan to compel certain public officials to stand public trial."

Bank Failures Back of Probe.

The committee's investigation of state affairs was investigated by the failure last fall of four large banks in which Lee and Caldwell were interested and in which nearly $7,000,000 of state funds were on deposit.

The move to investigate the investigators was announced by Representative Grover Charris, who said he planned to introduce a resolution to that effect. In a statement he said that "if rumors are true I feel like the conduct of at least some members of the committee should be investigated."

The delegation from Shelby county is sponsoring the resolution to appoint a committee to determine whether the house should impeach Horton. It was introduced yesterday with forty-four signatures. Fifty votes are necessary for its adoption. Congressman Edward H. Crump of Memphis, county seat of Shelby, who is one of the most powerful democratic leaders of the state, has been demanding Horton's impeachment for several months.

PORTRAITS QUEEN OF RUMANIA MAY GO FROM WALLS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 26—(AP)—Incidental to her reported expulsion from the royal family, Queen Helen's portraits may be removed from beside those of King Carol.

Patria, official organ of the peasants party, has followed up its announcement of the exclusion decree with the statement that the cabinet had issued a confidential order that her pictures be taken down from government offices in which they have hung since she married the young crown prince in 1921.

Political circles regard these disclosures as highly embarrassing in view of the fact that the queen still is in Rumania, although she probably will go into permanent exile shortly.

ADD HEALTH TO HOT BREADS

Hot breads are tempting. But often they lack roughage. The absence of bulk from foods often results in constipation.

But now you can have hot breads with roughage. Simply add a cupful of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to the recipe. This delicious cereal furnishes the bulk needed to assure proper elimination. You will find many appetizing recipes on the red-and-green ALL-BRAN package.

Equally tempting as a ready-to-eat cereal with milk or cream. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, use with each meal.

ALL-BRAN also furnishes needed iron for the body. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Man Accused of Slaying Kin in Duel Surrenders

NEW YORK, May 26—(AP)—Howarr W. Bridgetts, 29, a clerk, sought by police for the killing of his cousin, Dr. Joseph T. Loughlin, walked into headquarters early today with his attorney and surrendered.

The attorney turned a revolver over to the lieutenant and said: "This is the gun, which was used in self defense."

Brigetis, who for two days had been hiding with a bullet wound in his left arm, was given medical treatment and taken to King's county hospital prison ward, Brooklyn, for questioning.

Bridgetts was sought as the man who shot the physician in a duel at Marine park, Brooklyn, early Sunday after a quarrel in which Bridgetts was accused of carrying gossip about the physician to his wife.

Bridgetts told police three shots were fired, but he refused to say who fired them. He denied there was a duel and explained his own wound was self-inflicted.

MANY PROTEST CATTLE TESTING

Petitions Received By Bryan From Pierce Wayne Counties.

Large petitions of remonstrance from Pierce and Wayne counties, embodying objections by farmers to bovine tuberculosis tests on their cattle herds, have been received by Governor Bryan, who had directed the state veterinarian's office not to proceed with the tests in those counties because it appears that no legal petitions were ever filed from them.

In Pierce county, where 1,029 signatures were appended to the bovine tuberculosis petitions last fall, 409 have signed affidavits declaring the matter was misrepresented to them and asking to have their names taken off. The protest sent to Governor Bryan contains 1,600 names, including these 409.

In Wayne county, out of 941 original signers, 244 have withdrawn and several hundred others are remonstrating.

The law requires 60 per cent of the herd owners to petition in any county, before a testing area can be established. The petitions are far short of that percentage in Wayne and Pierce, after striking off the names of those who are now objecting.

Testing was headed off recently by gubernatorial order in Stanton and Cedar counties, before it had started. Retests were halted in Antelope upon complaint that farmers had not been paid their indemnities for animals condemned and slaughtered.

In Harlan county, payment of the county's share of expense for herd testing has been refused by the county board. Governor Bryan is waiting for a further report from there before taking action. He says the bovine tuberculosis law will be enforced in any county where the legal requirements are met.

DEEPEST DRILLED HOLE GOES DOWN TO 9,646 FEET

TAFT, Cal.—(AP)—"The world's deepest drilled hole," is a title almost as transitory as that of the tallest skyscraper, but for a time at least it rests in the San Joaquin valley.

The Williams No. 1 well in the Semitropic field is down more than 9,646 feet. The bit is in hard gray sannd with no oil showing at that depth.

The previous drilling record was held by Mascot No. 1 in the Midway field with a bottom of 9,629 feet.

ALLOW EXPENSE CHICAGO TRIPS

Towle's Costs in Bringing Back Bandits Totals $580.50.

Payment of expenses totaling $580.50 incurred by County Attorney Max G. Towle and Deputy County Attorney Farley Young in the roundup and identification of the three suspects in Lincoln National Bank and Trust Co. robbery was approved by the county board of commissioners Tuesday.

This represents the complete cost to the county of two trips to Illinois by the county attorney and one trip by his deputy and the expenses of seventeen witnesses. Expenses incurred by Towle and witnesses on his third trip last week which culminated in the return of Thomas Pat O'Connor, Howard Lee and Jack Britt to Nebraska Tuesday were not included.

County Sheriff Claude Hensel has presented no bill for any of his expenses in connection with the roundup of the three bandit suspects. The county will also have to pay for the special car in which the offciers returned with their prisoners from Chicago to Lincoln.

County Attorney Towle filed an expense account of $223.50 for his first trip to Sterling, Morrison and Chicago, Ill., on which he was accompanied by four men. Of this amount, he asked $124 for mileage, and the remainder for hotels and meals, with the exception of an item of $19.50 for the return of County Engineer Edgren, one of the witnesses, from Morrison by auto. This bill covers the time from May 9 to May 12, inclusive.

Expenses on the county attorney's second trip, lasting from May 14 to May 19, amounted to $197. Mileage amounted to $120, meals and hotels to $65 and car storage accounted for the remaining $12.

Deputy County Attorney Young's trip, with a carload of witnesses, between May 10 and May 13, cost the county $160. Mileage, gas and oil for his automobile cost $80 and the remaining $80 was consumed in lunches and hotel costs.

Askew Denies Oil Company Wants To Furnish City Water

P. B. Askew, an officer of the Cass Petroleum Co., which is drilling for oil on the Shrine Country club grounds denied to Commissioner Schroeder Tuesday tha his company had anything to do with a proposal made to the council Monday to supply the city with a plentiful supply of pure water for a half million dollars. The proposal was made by Homer Earl, who claimed he is an irrigation engineer. He was accompanied to the meeting by C. C. Flansburg and C. J. Campbell, attorneys, and Dr. J. D. Case, who said they were representing the Lincoln Civic league.

According to Mr. Schroeder, Mr. Askew said that any offer to supply the city with water, is wholly unauthorized, so far as his company is concerned. None of those at the council meeting had authority to speak for the company in any way, he added.

Mr. Askew knows very little about the quantity or quality of the water under the Shrine property, he told the head of the water department. That there is a large supply there, he has ben told by his chief driller, who says the supply is the largest he has ever encountered in many years of drilling.

After the meeting of the council Monday a Lincoln geologist, in a talk with City Clerk Berg, declared that the water under the club grounds, is only a large pool. It would not begin to supply the city for all time, he declared.

CLAIM CONDITION OF GEORGE KINER DUE WAR SERVICE

The critical tubercular condition of the late George F. Kiner, which his wife and mother claim was due to war service and for which they are suing the United States for his war risk insurance was described from the witness stand in Federal court Tuesday morning by physicians.

Dr. Henry J. Deaver of Sabetha, Kas., and Dr. Charles Novak of Humboldt, Neb., both testified to Kiner's physical condition. Monday afternoon, Kiner's mother, Mrs. Louisa Kiner of Sabetha, Kas., described the ill health and morbidness of her son following his discharge from the army soon after the armistice.

Kiner committed suicide with poison in a Kansas City hotel in 1925. His wife, Mrs. Olga Kiner of Lincoln, and his mother are asking for payments alleged due on the $10,000 war risk insurance policy from the date of Kiner's discharge. To date these payments amount to $7,705. If successful, either or both the mother and wife will continue receiving $52.50 monthly until the full 10,000 is paid out. The mother and wife are friendlyc ontestants for the money.

The conflict in claims arises from the fact that Kiner named his mother as beneficiary in his policy, not becoming married until 1921. He is alleged to have expressed the intention of making his wife the beneficiary upon their marriage, but failed to do so.

British Queen Honored On Her 64th Birthday

"Created Tradition of Her Own," Says One London Paper.

SANDRINGHAM, May 26—(AP)—Queen Mary was 64 years old today and felicitations poured in on her from a wide circle of relatives, friends and admirers.

No public ceremonies were planned but she looked forward with King George to receiving guests at Sandringham palace.

The press was particularly laudatory in recording the event.

One paper said that while she had maintained the best traditions of the late Queen Victoria, she had "created a tradition of her own—a tradition of active, beneficient public services in which she surpassed all royal predecessors."

Mary was born at Kensington palace on May 26, 1867, the daughter of the Duke of Teck and Mary Adelaide. She was first betrothed in 1891 to the Duke of Clarence, eldest son of King Edward VII, but he died in 1892. She married the Duke of York in 1893 and was crowned with him in Westminster Abbey in 1911 on the death of King Edward.

This was the first time in several years that Queen Mary had spent her anniversary day in Sandringham house, her favorite residence and always "home" to members of the royal family. It was a private celebration, featured by the receipt of gifts from her children and grandchildren.

Bancroft Believed Recovering From Unusual Disease

OMAHA, May 26—(AP)—Physicians attending Paul M. Bancroft, University of Nebraska medical instructor who is suffering from a rare disease, granuloma coccidiodes, contracted while he was doing research work, today reported that he is considerably improved at a local hospital.

Members of the hospital staff believe that Bancroft may have built up an unusual resistance to the infection as a result of a previous attack, suffered four years ago shortly after he had worked with a fungus that causes it in a University of Pennsylvania laboratory.

Today was the first day Bancroft had shown definite improvement. Doctors said he has an excellent chance to recover. The disease, which is usually fatal, generally runs a course of several months.

Museum Is Given Two Eggs Extinct New Zealand Mos

AUCKLAND, New Zealand—(AP)—Two perfect specimens of Mos eggs have been presented to the Dunedin national museum by a private collector, whose grandfather secured the relics more than half a century ago.

The gift is a rare one, for only six other Mos eggs are known to exist.

The Mos was a gigantic flightless bird akin to an ostrich, but larger. It was extinct when white men first came to New Zealand. The bird laid an egg about 10 inches in length.

State Officers Seeking Former Husband Of Mrs. Lloyd Bowers

STILL WORK ON DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Officers Would Interview George Carrico of Hastings.

Think Former Spouse Might Throw Light On Motive.

Although state authorities are satisfied that Lloyd Bowers murdered his wife and then met an accidental death when he tried to escape on a passing train near Kearney last week, one deputy is still working on the case seeking the reason for the tragedy, State Sheriff Michael Endres announced Tuesday.

Deputy State Sheriff Otto Dudschus, who is stationed regularly at Grand Island is still at work on the case, Deputies Battan and Burns having returned to Lincoln Monday. The chief object of the quest now is George Carrico, of Hastings, former husband of Mrs. Bowers.

Belief that he had any part in the murder is absurd, Sheriff Endres feels, as a result of the findings of his deputies at Kearney. The man's body could not have been injured in any way except by his own unsuccessful attempt to catch a train, they reported.

Carrico, however, might be able to shed some light on whether there had been any cause for friction between the Bowers couple, Sheriff Endres says.

Mrs. Bowers is said to have been granted a divorce from Carrico some time ago.

Chemists are still working on the blood samples submitted to them.

CROFTON NOW HAS ADEQUATE SUPPLY OF FINEST WATER

(Special to The Star).

CROFTON, Neb., May 26—Crofton is now assured of an adequate supply of the finest water at all times and for all purposes. The water problem has been a trying one here for many years, both deep and shallow well having been sunk, only to fail at critical times. Several months ago springs near here which had never been known to fail were tapped and a filtration system installed. These springs furnish a bountiful supply of cool, soft water, which is piped to the wells, and now everybody is happy. The new system is capable of furnishing three times the amount of water required. The cost was about $13,000.

NO INQUEST INTO DEATH OF VICTIM GILEAD ACCIDENT

(Special to The Star.)

FAIRBURY, Neb., May 26 — County Attorney Robert M. Baldwin of Thayer county was in Fairbury Monday investigating the crash near Gilead Sunday which took the life of John Voigtlander of Geneva, and and injured seven other occupants of the two cars involved in the crash. He talked to those of the injured who were able, to decide whether the evidence justified an inquest in the death of Voigtlander.

Later he expressed the opinion that there was no need of an inquest as the story told by the survivors of the wreck indicated that there were no criminal liability attached to the driver of either car, and in trying to avoid a collision with the Melvin car, which was coming from the west, both went onto the edge of the grade at the south side of the road and crashed. Mrs. William Robinson of Geneva, daughter of Voigtlander, is in a critical condition at a local hospital, and her recovery is a matter of doubt, according to attending physicians.

FALLS CITY, Neb., May 26—(AP)—A fire, caused by a small boy hurling a lighted match into a stream of gasoline leading into the Shelley Cleaning company plant here, threatened down town Falls City for a time Monday night. After the blaze was practically extinguished, owners estimated that the damaged property was worth 3,000.

Fast work by the Falls City volunteer fire department confined the blaze to the cleaning plant. Hundreds of residents packed the streets to watch the blaze.

HOW TO BUY ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

STANDARD RATING SCALE for Electric Refrigeration

3 YEAR GUARANTEE

The Kelvinator line includes models priced from $174.50, f. o. b. factory, upward. Any one of these may be purchased on Rudge & Guenzel Co. Monthly Budget Plan.

WOULDN'T you like to know in advance . . . with absolute certainty . . . which electric refrigerator will serve you best and longest? Will you trust the Standard Rating Scale and your own good judgment to tell you? Then come in, to-day or tomorrow, and apply the infallible tests for value that the Scale furnishes. Let this sound demonstration help you make a choice you will never regret.

- Is the refrigerator manufactured by a reliable company with proper experience in the electric refrigeration field?
- Has it plenty of food and shelf space?
- Is the cabinet itself well designed, sturdily built and properly insulated?
- Is there provision for the freezing of an adequate supply of ice cubes? (Quantity of ice rather than number of cubes, which may be of large or small size, should be taken into consideration).
- Will the refrigerator constantly maintain a proper temperature for the preservation of foods?
- Can the freezing of ice cubes and desserts be speeded up when the need arises?
- Can this extra freezing speed for ice cubes be had without affecting the temperature on the food shelves? (Too low a temperature on the shelves will, of course, injure food).
- Is there a place to keep ice cream, meat, fish, game, "quick frosted" foods or extra ice cubes indefinitely at a below freezing temperature?
- Are these various temperatures (a. extra fast freezing; b. fast freezing; c. below freezing for storage; and d. normal food preservation temperature) automatically maintained without any attention from the owner?
- Does the refrigerating unit operate often or infrequently? (The fewer "stops" and "starts" the longer the unit will last and the less it costs to run.)
- How long will the cooling unit continue to cool the refrigerator even though the current is shut off? (Refrigeration should continue for 10 or 12 hours).
- Can the back parts of all shelves, even the lowest, be reached without kneeling or sitting down?
- Has provision been made for keeping vegetables fresh and crisp?
- Can the refrigerator top be used to "set things down for a moment" while the contents of the cabinet are being re-arranged?
- Will the refrigerator add to the attractiveness of the kitchen?
- Has the experience of users over a long period of years proved the refrigerator long-lived and dependable?

Mad Pursuit

BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX—

SYNOPSIS: The message Nora Lake sends telling of the suicide of her husband, Nicholas Thayer, from the deck of their steamer brings his brother Johnathon, to meet her when she reaches Albany. Conscious of having married Nicholas merely to escape living with her shiftless father Julian, in Italy, Nora's wretchedness is increased by Jon's chilly regard and his failure to recall their previous meeting. After spending the night with her Aunt Emily and cousins, Frances, whose husband has left her, and crippled Hallie she visits Nicholas' step-sister, Damon, at the Thayer home near Albany. Reproaching Nora for failing to prevent Nicholas' suicide; Damon, plainly moved by duty invites her to live with them. But Jon tells her, "I did not want you to come."

Chapter 17.

JON'S BURNING WORDS.

Jonathon's head was sunk between his bowed shoulders. His anguish was suddenly painful to her.

"I told myself," he continued, "I couldn't bear to see you day after day to be reminded of...him."

She waited, watching the bent head straighten. He kept his eyes on the river. He spoke steadily.

"Nick was seven years older than I. It makes a lot of difference when you're kids. But afterwards I grew up to him. He was always dark and violent and strange. He was something like my mother..."

Was he ever going to say anything more? Was he going to sit forever, his fair head bowed in his hands, his shoulders hunched? He went on at last.

"Nick scorned most people. No one understood him. And I was crazy about him. You know how a younger brother sometimes looks up to an older? Well, I would have done anything Nick told me to. But he seemed to hate us all—all but me.

"Nothing mattered to him but his painting. He wouldn't go to college. It upset my mother. But he liked my step-father; and Damon who came to live with us after my mother was married a second time. They left him alone. A few days before he was going to Paris to study, we quarreled. He struck me and knocked me down. I said I wished to God he was dead. I never wanted to lay eyes on him again. He said I never would. He went away and didn't write. And I was too proud to write first. This spring he was to come back. Instead you came..."

His eyes, she saw, were blurred with tears. After a while he went on more steadily, not in that voice that he forced to be could and hard.

"When I saw you in the station—that little girl I had met years ago in England. it seemed as though—you'd come back to show me what a beast I'd been. I thought Nicholas must have told you he hated me."

"He never told me anything.'

"I don't suppose I'll ever get over it. When you love a person as I loved him, as you—" his voice trailed off.

The moment had come that she had dreaded. She must tell him that she had never loved Nicholas. Jon held out his hand.

"Nora," he said, "will you let me make it up to you—for him?"

'But you may not want me here—when you know—"

He was looking at her now, his green eyes on hers. She saw that he had become her friend. And she needed him so desperately. She needed all he had to give, the old house, the security.

"I'm not very—I mean I should earn my living. But I don't know how. There isn't anything I can do!" she said wildly.

"But that wasn't what you were going to tell me, was it Nora?"

"No. It wasn't.

If she told him that she had only married Nicholas because she was afraid he would despise her. No she couldn't tell him!

"You're not afraid to tell me?" he asked.

She caught her breath and turned her face away. If she should tell him, how that cold look would change his face; he who had never had anything to be afraid of.

She did not tell him. But instead she poured out to him all the story of these last years. the wandering life, the borrowing the petty devices by which they had lived.

"My father is a painter," she ended, "but I suppose he's really more of—a tramp. And thats all I am."

"Are you?" Jon asked gently. "I like tramps. Do you remember years ago when I first saw you you thought he was so wonderful."

"He's so generous, he'd give away anything he had—and take anything you had," she smiled. "Julian is a darling."

But Jon did not want to talk about her father.

"Do you remember the funny old things I was staying with—in England—"

"And the garden?"

"And old miss—whats her name who was so shocked at us?"

They went on with: "Do you remember?" until the English rectory with its faded chintz and shabby books, was bright wth their memories.

Jon, looking at her strangely, said, "Your hair is like dark beech leaves, Nora."

She thought he had forgotten; but he had remembered. Wings unfolded in her breast. The sky and grass became illumined. How everything had changed as she walked back beside him toward the old Dutch house. Her home, her trees, her sky, her clouds!

She understood now why he had seemed so cold and hard. He had instinctively hidden from her his deep and terrible pain. It was that that was drawing them close to each other now. It was as unlike Nicholas as only brothers can be. But he seemed more akin to her than anyone she had ever known, except her father.

"I know you won't tell anyone what I have told you?"

He meant, of course, that she should not tell Damon; the smile she gave him was her promise.

In the drawing room Damon was at the tea table, with a splendid-looking old man beside her. Jon took Nora up to him and Damon's father looking down into her pretty fresh face, said, "I hear you're coming to stay with us? That's what we need, youth and freshness abount us as we grow older."

Damon colored faintly and asked Jon if he would make cocktails while Mr. Van Vorst drew Nora aside.

"A very strange family." He shook his head. "Jon's mother. A lovely woman but—had a passion for letting things free. She'd buy birds, just to let them out of their cages. Yes, very strange."

As he went on talking Jon glanced at Nora and smiled. At that intimate smile of understanding her heart leaped up. She loved them! She scarcely listened to what old Mr. Van Vorst was saying, intent on those two beside the tea table. Jon was leaning toward Damon and Nora caught only a few words.,

"—wretched tramp of a father—no upbringing—"

She saw Damon look up and nod. In the twilight room she saw Jon's face arrogant and cool. The treachery of those few words burned her like red hot oil poured into her heart.

He had told Damon even while Nora was in the room all that she had poured out to him in that intimate talk. "A wretched tramp of a father" He pitied her and he was ashamed of her. He was taking her into his home only because it was a duty left him by the dead man.

Nora sat listening to Mr. Van Vorst talking or rather she pretended to listen, while Jon's treachery cut deeper and deeper. When she looked across at him it was hard to believe he had betrayed her, for his clear-cut features made his face seem fine and sensitive.

Jon smiled at her but she looked away. He was thinking what a brave spirited creature she was. A tramp, like her father, he thought, but there was nothing derogatory in the thought; rather he felt an admiration for that free wandering life she had lived, for the sturdy philosophy that had borne her up. He would like to know Julian Lake, he thought.

It was time for Nora to leave, she told Damon. No, she would not stay to dinner.

"In a week then," Damon asked leaning forward to kiss her lightly on the cheek, "you will come to stay with us?"

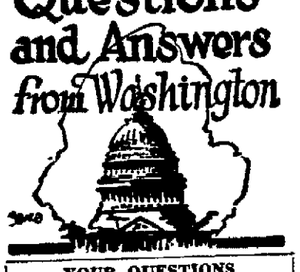

Nora whispered yes. She was conscious of Jon against the door watching her. She barely touched his hand when she said good-bye. A car was waiting for her before the house.

She was still living in that other world, still seeing the old house in the twilight when she reached Aunt Em's. Its solidity seemed to her the symbol of all she desired. It was deep rooted in the soil,—with the hills folded behind it, and the woods shouldering it. It seemed to her to be the very stronghold of that eroptional surety that she so passionately longed for.

RECIPE GIVES COFFEE ROASTER IDEA FOR PERFECTING FLAVOR

Applies Rule for Mixing Muffin Ingredients to Patented Roasting Process

Success in muffin making depends to a great extent on the care with which the batter is made. That is why most recipes state that the milk should be poured into the flour a little at a time rather than all at once. Such care prevents lumps from forming.

This rule, "a little at a time," is the basis of Controlled Roasting—a process patented and used only by Hills Bros. in roasting their coffee. By automatic control, coffee passes continuously through the roasters, a few pounds at a time. Accurately controlled heat is applied with the result that every berry is roasted evenly—to the degree that insures a rich, uniform, full-bodied flavor. The common method of roasting coffee is in bulk—just the opposite of Hills Bros.' process.

Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh because it is packed in vacuum. By this process air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out of the can and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Rogues' Gallery Urged For 20,000 Species Of Bugs

STAMFORD Conn., (AP)—Dr. E. Porter Felt proposes to save state entomologists from 20,000 different kinds of bugs.

Himself a nationally known insect man, director of the Bartlett Tree Research laboratories, Dr. Felt says that a state entomologist today is supposed to recognize all the 20,000 bugs in his duties of protecting the farmer, the merchant and the housewife from their ravages.

It is too much for human brains unaided, especially since these same bugs have enough disguises to look like 100,000 different kinds. The disguises are nature's various forms of growing them through egg, larva and pupa stages, and the requent big differences she makes in the appearance of males and females.

Dr. Felt proposes to the American Association for the Advancement of Science a code identification system, so that the entomologist who meets one he has forgotten, or never before heard of, can go through the files in a few minutes and get acquainted. At present, says Felt, it sometimes tanes several days' search to place one bug.

Pine Tree Beat Man On Use of I-Beam Design

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—The I-beam—form of greatest strength in steel—was invented by tree roots.

The trees use it for the sane purpose that man applies the shape in his building materials, for greater support.

The latest example of I-beam shaped roots is found in bogs near Seattle by George B. Rigg, professor of botany, and E. S. Harrer, of the college of forestry, at the University of Washington.

Their curiosity was aroused by tall pines in bogs which stood unbent while similar pines in nearby solid ground were uprooted in strong winds.

They found first of all, they report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, that these bog pine roots were all near the surface, barely two feet deep, spreading in a top layer of peat. But the roots had enormous spread, being twice as long as young trees, and running out 97 feet for a 60-foot tall tree.

This spread accounted only partly for the pine's tight hold on the ground. Virtually none of the older roots were round. They had assumed the familiar shapes of structural steel, some of them T-girder and other I-beam.

These shapes lay with their longer sides vertical. The botanists concluded that the shapes developed by continual slight pressure due to supporting the trunk.

Prayer vs. Airplanes
Big Liquor Bill
Cash for Three Things
John Swadling's Dog

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

After the great display by army airplanes above New York City, many clergymen preached sermons denouncing the exhibition, saying there should be no fighting airplanes. Everything should be lovely and peaceful.

So it should be, and so it isn't.

What would the clergymen suggest as a substitute for airplanes in case of war? Would they suggest prayer?

In another war, as in the late war, there would be praying on both sides, and sincere praying. How dare we assume that our prayers would be more efficacious than the prayers of others? What do we know about the divine mind?

At best the result must be uncertain.

On the other hand, there is no uncertainty about airplanes. Their speed, carrying capacity, the power of bombs and poisons that they would drop can be calculated definitely.

The people of the United States spend almost three billions of dollars a year with the bootleggers of the country. The exact amount mentioned is $2,848,000,000, and that places bootlegging among the biggest industries, on a par with the automobile and other great businesses.

The amount does not include home brewing or home distilling, which might double the total.

The worst of it is the kind of drinking. Of the total paid to bootleggers $2,200,000,000 goes for whiskey and gin. The country spends now for "hard liquor" three times as much as it did before the war.

Good times or bad, men will find money for three things, racing, gambling, smoking. And the worst of the three is gambling.

The Irish sweepstakes, to help to build Irish hospitals, total amount $12,500,000. Hospitals will get more than $3,000,000, gamblers about $9,000,000, expenses will eat the rest. There will be many prizes of $150,000, also $75,000, and $50,000, and smaller prizes, totaling 4,000 prizes in all.

Five million have bought tickets, and whether they win or lose, they are a little nearer to the certainty that they will never make any permanent success. Gambling prevents that. And the chances are more than 1,000 to one against winning any prize.

John Swadling, 96 years old, will surely march in the Oskaloosa Memorial day parade next Saturday, but it is not quite sure about his dog, Teddy.

That faithful creature is 23 years old, and Mr. Swadling says, "That's pretty old for a dog, but 96, that is young for a man." Ninety-six really will be young for a man, in days to come. Each mammal lives about ten times the age at which it reproduces its kind, some much longer.

Man, therefore, should live to 150, and be able after 100 years of work to say, with certainty, "Now for 50 years of relaxation, to think, see the earth, contemplate the stars."

General von Ludendorff predicts another European war in July, "More ferocious and disastrous than the World war." England, allied with Italy, would attack and blockade France.

Fortunately, it is only a nightmare. England knows too much about the size of the French air fleet to undertake any blockading, now out of date so far as Europe is concerned.

French airmen would fly over the British ships, sink them, on the way, and move on to destroy London, Liverpool and Manchester.

To say, as Ludendorff does, that the next war will be worse than the last, is to discuss an uncertainty. We don't know yet how bad the last war was. And shall not know until this depression, born of that war, is ended.

The latest British air news recalls the statement of Lieutenant Williams of our navy. "Americans talk fast and fly slowly. The British talk slowly and fly rapidly."

In trial flight at Calshot a British pilot recently attained a speed beyond the world's record, also British, of 357.7 miles an hour. The English "supermarine" firm has built two machines, expected to do better than 400 miles an hour.

The United States will not compete in the European speed race with France, Italy and England. That is just as well, for we should only be ridiculous in that race.

Robert S. Montgomery (above), 25-year-old Princeton graduate, and Park avenue, New York, playboy, shot the manager of the exclusive Club Chanticleer, in Washington, D. C., murdered a policeman who attempted to prevent his escape, and then committed suicide. The tragic shooting occurred when Montgomery became enraged over the club manager's refusal to give him a table he desired. COTNER ALUMNI IN BANQUET MONDAY

More Than 100 Graduates Attend Annual Celebration in Bates Hall.

More than 100 alumni of Cotner college gathered at Bates hall on the school campus, Monday evening, for their banquet, held yearly in connection with the festivities of commencement week. Following a program of toasts and musicals, the meeting adjourned to the gymnasium-auditorium where a program of music was sponsored by the alumni.

Earl E. Parminter acted as toastmaster at the banquet and responses were given by the following: Elten Burh, class of 1899, "Cotner the Past;" Joe Osterhout, class of 1915, "Cotner the Present;" Lewis C. Anderson, "Cotner the Future;" and J. Kennedy, class of 1927. Music at the close of the dinner hour was supplied by B. E. Ogden, vocalist, and Merton Welch and Marvin Hudleson, trumpeters. Several reels of motion pictures depicting Cotner life were shown by Hugh Lomax of the class of 1905.

During the evening Martella Lane of Christian college, California, was presented as the guest of honor. Mrs. Lane will receive her doctors degree at the commencement services Tuesday.

COUNCIL ORDERS BRINGING ZONING INJUNCTION SUIT

The city council instructed F. A. Peterson Monday to immediately institute a suit for an injunction against B. J. Finkelstein using his property at 2237 R street as a junk yard. "We might just as well go to bat on this proposition and find out what the city's rights are," Mayor Zehrung declared when the resolution was introduced.

Mayor Zehrung also shouldered all responsibility for the introduction of a resolution reducing the license fee and occupation tax on billiard rooms. "The charges are too high," he declared. "In my opinion they always have been. And then I am opposed to the practice of assessing an occupation tax on private business, especially where it is not in any way using the public streets or alleys to do business. It is all wrong. It is unjust and unfair." The council shared the responsibility with the mayor by voting unanimously for the ordinance which was read three times and passed with the emergency clause attached.

Th American Legion was given a permit to operate a carnival at Fifth and A streets. The permit was conditioned, however, upon the servicemen policing the north side of A street, from the tracks west, and setting the carnival at least 100 feet back from the street.

Piles All Gone

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly and don't come back. If you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemmorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and cutting fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in 960 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. Smiley Drug Co. says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back. —Advertisement.

Operate on Diplomat Attacked By Thieves

Charge d'Affaires of Legation Will Not Ask Reparation For Liquor Stolen.

WASHINGTON, May 26 — (AP) — A skull operation today was expected to speed the recovery of Dr. Carlos Leiva, charge d'affaires of the legation of El Salvador, from the effects of an attack by liquor thieves.

Dr. Herbert H. Schoenfeld, Washington surgeon, was called upon to perform the operation to raise a piece of skull he had found to be pressing on the brain.

The diplomat is at the emergency hospital, where he has been since the attack. The surgeon said he expected Leiva to be able to leave the hospital in about two weeks.

The attack occurred May 13 when Lieva surprised several men in the legation in the early morning. He grappled with one of them, suffering the injury to his head. The man escaped when Leiva left to call the police.

Seventeen cases of liquor were taken by the marauders but Leiva said he would not demand reparation from the United States.

"The essential effect of the Ultra Violet is the production of better tobacco and of cigarettes regarded by virtually all smokers who have tested them as milder and with a lesser tendency to cause throat irritation."

He charges Mrs. Courtnay knew of the various transactions and approved of them but refused to recognize him as a tenant and had him dispossessed by action in municipal court in 1929 without leave to remove the building. Mrs. Courtnay claims that she did not know that any changes had been made relative to the lease after it went into Seguin's hands and that as soon as she found out he no longer held it she ordered Elam out. STOCK EXCHANGE ISSUES WARNING

Questionnaires Demand Information on Bearish Operations.

Committee Seeks Check Up On Possible Unethical Short Selling.

NEW YORK, May 26—(AP)— The New York stock exchange has, in effect, warned bears to watch their step.

Members today received a questionnaire from the exchange demanding full information regarding bearish operations of themselves or their clients. This is the first time, so far as has become publicly known, that the exchange's committee on business conduct has begun an extensive investigation of the bears since the troublesome days of last autumn.

The exchange's rules impose severe penalties for operations designed to depress share values artificially, although the exchange is not opposed to legitimate short selling.

Richard Whitney, president, has said the investigation of the severe decline last autumn did not disclose excessive or unethical bearish activity.

1929 Questionnaire Recalled.

Toward the end of the violent crash of the autumn of 1929, the exchange also checked up on the short position. A questionnaire sent out at that time, perhaps merely by coincidence, marked the end of that phase of the decline.

The 1929 qestionnaire, dated November 13, was recalled ten days later. The current demand for information was the first general circular of its kind sent to members since that time.

It directed members to furnish:

"A list of all stocks borrowed and for whose account.

"A list of all stock loaned and to whom.

"Intra-office borrowings and for whose account.

"A list of all stocks which you (the member) have failed to deliver and for whose account."

Replies Later in Week.

Replies must be filed later this week, and subsequent reports of the changes in members' accounts caused by each day's business must be submitted daily thereafter, presumably until further notice.

Although there was no official comment on the questionnaire, Wall street took it for granted that the powerful business conduct committee was seeking to check up on possible unethical short selling in a stock market which has been declining almost steadily since February, sending prices back to 1926 levels.

Reproduction of Mount Vernon Home Opened At Exposition in Paris

PARIS, May 26—(AP)—The American pavilion in France's international colonial and overseas exposition, a reproduction of Mount Vernon, was formally opened this afternoon by Ambassador Walter E. Edge and C. Bascom Slemp, the American high commissioner.

The United States, in contributing to the exposition this recreation of George Washington's historic home, "has sought a modest but highly symbolic manner to express its profound admiration for France," Ambassador Edge said in his address.

Gen. John J. Pershing, Andre Tardieu, minister of agriculture, and Paul Reynaud, minister of colonies, were other speakers.

In no quarter of the globe, the ambassador continued, did American policy seek to displace existing allegiances and loyalties.

COTNER GRANTS DEGREES TO 24

Martella Cone Lane Is Honored; H. H. Wilson Gives Address.

Twenty-four Cotner college seniors were graduated at the annual spring commencement held Tuesday morning at the Bethany Christian church. The honorary degree of doctor of fine arts was conferred upon Martella Cone Lane of Los Angeles, former Cotner student who has won distinction as a painter of nature scenes in California.

The address of the day was delivered by Henry H. Wilson. He declared that young people are fortunate in coming to the stage of activity at this time. "The world's affairs have never been in a more fluid condition than they are now," he said.

Mr. Wilson characterized life as a great drama and insisted that everyone has a part to play. He expressed the belief that America will have great difficulties to meet during the next generation and pointed out that how those are to be met depends on the attitude of young people today.

Happiness and service, Mr. Wilson said, are two things that students entering life's activities should consider uppermost in choosing a vocation. Only in those things enjoyed can people do well, he averred.

"The defense of a nation depends on its natural resources and the intellect of its people and sustained peace also depends on the intellect of the citizens of a country, Mr. Wilson said. He went on to discuss the achievements of this country and the part college graduates have taken in them.

The formal presentation of diplomas was made by President L. C. Anderson. The group included: Bachelor of arts, Ernest Baker, Lawrence E. Baron, William E Bishop, William D. Borgaard, Robert E. If Your Dishes Could Only Talk They Would Tell You This

VITAL TRUTH

Only HALF-CLEAN without Hot Water

"I'm only a dish," said the china plate, "but, I know what it takes to make me clean."

"HOT WATER! And, lots of it. Steaming and bubbling from the faucet at the kitchen sink. Say, any dish would shine and glisten like the finest Haviland with a bath like that.

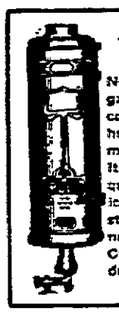

"But, cold water, Ugh! Just half clean. That's all. And, not even a good job of that sometimes."

Who is there to say the dish is wrong. The only sure road to the meticulous cleanliness every homemaker wants is with hot water. And the only certain, always-ready hot water supply is an automatic gas water heater.

Then, you have an abundance of hot water, stored automatically, in advance of your demand, and ready to flow instantly.

You can have it. Now! Just telephone us and well show you the way.

Tank Heaters

Next to an automatic gas water heater comes the gas tank heater. Though it is manually controlled, it will heat water quickly and economically. You can install a tank heater now at a low price. Come in or phone for details.

SHRINE SITE FOR WATER FAVORED

Delegation Asks Council Investigate Possible New Source.

Drilling Company Seeks Contract to Furnish Supply.

Claim was made to the city council Monday afternoon that there is plenty of good water under the Shrine Country club grounds to supply a city twice the size of Lincoln for all time, and that this site should be thoroughly investigated before the city goes any further with its plans for bringing a supply from the Platter river near Ashland.

The claim was urged by C. C. Flansburg and C. J. Campbell, attorneys. Dr. J. D. Case, and Homer Earl, who said he is an irrigation engineer. After the meeting they stated they were representing the Lincoln Civic league. They disclaimed technical knowledge of water sources, but believed that in the light of what has been found in the oil well hole being drilled at the Shrine club, that it is in the interest of public good, economy and good business to determine beyond any doubt the quality and the quantity of the water that has been found.

"Even if the drillers of the oil well get nothing but a dry hole," it was contended, "it will be a wonderful thing for Lincoln if an abundant supply of water is discovered," the speakers urged. Mr. Earl read a log of the oil well, which is now approximately 1,000 feet in depth. It contained nothing Commissioner Schroeder, head of the water department, did not already know. He has been watching the drilling. So has City Engineer D. L. Erickson, and F. A. Peterson, city attorney. Theo Berg, city clerk, also has been out and looked at the well, and made inquiries regarding the amount of water available.

Thinks Supply Insufficient.

"I have a log of the well," Mr. Schroeder said. "I doubt very much whether it will yield a supply of more than 500 gallons a minute. If it will not do that, there is no use of trying to use that location as a source for Lincoln."

In answer to Mr. Campbell suggesting that the money voted for an Ashland source being used on the Shrine source, Mr. Schroeder said, "the people ordered the council to acquire a permanent supply of water near the Platte river at Ashland. To do this they voted bonds. When I am ordered by the people to do a certain thing I most certainly will carry out their wishes, if possible." He added, "of course I am willing to investigate the Shrine source."

Mr. Campbell had suggested that even though the people had voted bonds to go to Ashland for water, that "no one would find fault" if it is found that a plentiful supply is found elsewhere and the money used there. This would be true, he added, especially if the cost would be a million dollars or more less than going to Ashland.

Money Voted For Ashland.

According to F. A. Peterson, city attorney, "the money voted for the Ashland project, can be used only on the Ashland project. If a half million dollars is to be spent on a project at the Shrine club, the finances will have to come from some other source than the funds voted to bring water from the Platte."

In presenting the alleged advantages of the Shrine club site, Mr. Earl sprang a surprise on his colleagues. The oil well drillers would be perfectly willing to enter into a contract to furnish the city with water, he declared. They will do it for a half million dollars. If the city does not want to put up the money to pay for the work, the drilling company will make a contract guaranteeing the amount and quality, the city to pay after the work is completed, and only when the requirements of the contract are met. He then gave the council a draft of an agreement signed by himself.

After the meeting adjourned city officials stated that in addition to the attention they have been giving the well, geologists at the university also have been watching it. Dr. G. E. Condra has a complete copy of the log, it was stated. So has Professor Lugn, one of the investigators for supplies east, south and west of the city, before the bonds were voted. Further investigations will be made.

CREIGHTON TELLS STORY OF MURDER

Trivial Quarrel Following Afternoon of Drinking Led to Shooting Says Creighton.

The story of how drink and a trivial quarrel led James Creighton to kill Coyne Hatten at Webb City, Mo., on May 16 is told in Creighton's confession given to Joplin police.

A copy of this confession was received by Deputy State Sheriff Benton while in Joplin questioning Creighton concerning the Hastings National bank robbery. Creighton has admitted taking part in this robbery. He was one of the two who escaped after kidnaping a Hastings officer and later releasing him in Kansas. Following the robbery he went to Bartlesville, Okla., and then moved to Joplin on April 27. Creighton, who is 26 years old, has served two prison terms in Oklahoma.

Creighton went to Webb City the day of the murder, May 16, with a young woman and another couple. They parked their car near a drug store in Webb City, where one of the women went to have an injured arm dressed. Creighton's story of what happened after that follows:

"Doris (the young woman who was his companion that day) then got out of the car and I got out. She had stepped up on the sidewalk when a man came from the south walking on the sidewalk. I had stepped into the little parkway between the sidewalk and the curb. As I stepped into the parkway, this man, who I have since learned was Coyne Hatten, brushed against me and took hold of the left side of my coat and we both turned facing each other.

"He said, 'Are you looking for trouble?' and I said, 'I beg your pardon' or something like that and I pulled my pistol from my belt where I was carrying it and started shooting. I fired either two or three shots. The man fell east across the sidewalk.

"When the man met me Doris Adams who had walked south some few steps turned and came back and said, 'This fellow is all right. He has a wife and child . . . or children. I don't remember which. She had turned and started away again when I started shooting. I carried this same pistol all the time and had it with me during the afternoon when I was in Webb City. It is a Colt .38 special police positive. I had been drinking all afternoon and was under the influence of liquor. His conduct made me mad and I fired.

"After the shooting I walked south to the front of the store, entered the store from he front, went on through and out the back door into the alley, then west and crossed the street, passing the body of the man whom I shot. After I crossed the street I went north to the first street orth of the drug store, crossed it and walked about a half block west when Mickey Carey and Bernice drove up, picked me up and brought me to Joplin."

'FORTUNE' CITES NEBRASKA NEEDS

Editor Luce Discusses State's Agriculture And Finances.

"Dollar Domestication" Deemed Essential To Prosperity.

Under the title, "Nebraska and the 8," Henry R. Luce, editor of Fortune magazine devotes considerable space in the June edition of that periodical to an analysis of Nebraska's agriculture, industries, finance, her needs and of Nebraskans themselves.

Mr. Luce's impressions and much of his statistical data were obtained during an extensive tour of Nebraska several weeks ago.

Treating the state, her institutions, her hopes and her failures kindly, Mr. Luce arrives at the conclusion, that Nebraska's greatest need is the domestication of the dollar. The dollar is admirably adjusted to commerce and industry, but poorly adjusted to the farm, he points out.

Nebraska a Farm.

Terming Nebraska a farm, Mr. Luce advances the belief that greater industrialization of agriculture and the erection of a sound banking system will result in the adjustment of the dollar to the farm, and make the Nebraska dollar behave better, where in the past its manners have been extremely bad.

"Nebraska's only natural resources are dirt and sky...." Mr. Luce writes. "Two generations of Nebraskans have, with plows, obliterated the grass, whose eternal waving made many an early homesteader's wife insane...There are in all 127,000 farms, each with house and barn and milk cows and chickens and sows and machines and radios...And the mind too has prospered, for of all the states of the world's most favored nation, Nebraska is one of the two most literate.

Dollar Not Domesticated.

"One thing only Nebraska has never properly domesticated. The dollar is a product, a tool, a cause and a result of commerce and industry; as such the dollar is, on the whole, rather marvelously adjusted to commerce and industry. But Nebraska, despite its great city where a symphony orchestra plays, is not commerce and industry. Nebraska is a farm. And the dollar is not and never was a native of the farm."

Mr. Luce deals extensively with the subject of Nebraska banking, supporting his premises that the adjustment of the dollar to the farm must come from a sound financial system, by declaring that Nebraska's bankrupt system of state chartered banks sharply illustrates how badly the dollar is adjusted to Nebraska.

Guaranty Fund Analyzed.

Terming the guaranty fund, "Nebraska's cornfed attempt to create adequate banking by legislative heroics," Mr. Luce declares that this legislation resulted not from antagonism to capitalism, but came about as a substitute for an adequate capitalistic system.

Taking exception to what he terms Wall street's typical attitude, Mr. Luce denies that there are radicals in Nebraska. To prove this he cites as a fact that Nebraska never was in the banking business actually, but nearly everybody in the state thought it was in the banking business.

From this, "nest of paradoxes," the writer adduces that the great majority of Nebraskans are socialistic. As other phenomena pointing to Nebraska's socialistic tendencies, Mr. Luce suggests city-owned gas works, state-owned filling stations, U. S. Senators Norris and Howell, and Nebraska's unique governor, "Charles W. (Brother) Bryan."

PUSH FIGHT ON BARBERRY BUSH

Nebraska and Other States Want Extension Quarantine.

WASHINGTON BUREAU
THE LINCOLN STAR

WASHINGTON, May 26— The plea of Nebraska and 12 other states, which for 18 years have been trying to eradicate barberry to prevent destruction of grain crops by black stem rust, for extension of barberry quarantine, will be heard by the department of agriculture on June 9 here.

The present quarantine order of the department prohibits the shipment of rust-susceptible barberry and Mahonia plants from other states into the 13 barberry eradication states, Nebraska, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan Montana, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Wisconsin and Wyoming. However, shipments of the plants from one of these 13 states to another is permitted. Nebraska and its fellows seek prohibition of shipments among themselves.

The black stem rust of wheat, oats, barley and rye lasts over winters on stubble and grass stems and in the spring develops spores which spread to barberry plants. Rust spots develop on the barberry leaves and spores produced on these leaves spread long distances to grain fields. Rust infection spreads rapidly in grain, which it shrivels and sometimes makes hardly worth harvesting. Great losses have resulted from rust infection, with 1916 probably the peak year when an estimated loss of wheat totaled 184,208,000 bushels.

Since barberry eradication has been more strenously under way, losses from stem rust epidemics have been less severe. In wheat alone, the average annual loss from 1916 to 1920 was 57,700,000 bushels; from 1921 to 1925, 17,867,000 bushels; from 1926 to 1930, 9,609,000 bushels. More than 18,000,000 common barberry bushes and seedlings have been destroyed in the 13 states since 1913.

Plant quarantine officers of most of the 13 states have twice asked revision of the quarantine law. They state that barberry eradication will not be completed for several years and are therefore fearful of infection of remaining susceptible barberries and Mahonias. Moreover, the lists of restricted species are not uniform throughout the 13 states.

The hearing will be held before the plant quarantine and control administration and federal plant quarantine board. In addition to probable extension of shipping restrictions, plans call for the revision of the list of species of barberries and Mahonia under restriction, and discussion of a permit system under which immune species may be shipped into or between the 13 states. There are more than 100 species and hybrids, many of which, including the popular Japanese barberry, are entirely immune.

OF DENTISTS NOW TELL THE BEST WAY TO CARE FOR TEETH

IT WOULDN'T be strange if you sometimes wonder if you really are taking the most effective care of your teeth and gums. There are dozens of different dentifrices—and countless conflicting theories about oral hygiene. What is right?

An important question! So E. R. Squibb & Sons asked a prominent research institution to conduct an investigation among 50,000 American dentists—a real court of authority. Here is the summary of the answers received:

98% of the answers stated that germ acids most frequently cause tooth decay and gum irritation;

98% agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet;

85% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia.

Could you have any more conclusive evidence that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your teeth and gums? It is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia.

Try Squibb's. It cleans beautifully — and safely. Contains no grit, no astringents—nothing which might injure. It refreshes the mouth as it cleans. Great for smokers!

GUARDS THE DANGER LINE

Here is THE TRUTH ABOUT WARD'S TIRES

Montgomery Ward & Co. sells two qualities of tires

THE RIVERSIDE is our first quality tire

It is made by one of the largest tire companies in the world. It is built to one of the most stringent sets of specifications in the tire industry. It is one of the best known tires in America. It has been sold by Ward's for nineteen consecutive years. Millions of Riversides are in use today. It is backed by a guarantee without limit as to time or mileage.

Other fine tires equal in quality to our Riversides are Firestone High Speed, Goodyear All Weather and Goodrich Silvertown Cords . . . but these tires are much higher priced than Riversides. The table at the left gives you a size-for-size price comparison.

Having studied that price comparison there remains only one question for you to ask . . . "Are Riverside tires really as good as these other tires with which they are compared?" Well, Montgomery Ward & Co. has been in business for sixty years. It is one of the largest and oldest merchandise institutions in the world. It is the originator of the "Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back" guarantee. It depends for its business not only on tires, but also on some 40,000 other items of merchandise which it wishes to sell to you. Isn't it reasonable to believe therefore that Ward's MUST be telling the truth when it makes these direct statements to you?

THE TRAIL BLAZER is our second quality tire

It is of the quality similar to such other nationally known "second-line" tires as Firestone Oldfield, Goodyear Pathfinder, and Goodrich Cavalier. And it, too, sells for LESS than other second-line tires . . . as the table at the lower left indicates.

This combination of quality-with-lowest-price which is offered by Ward's seems to have made some of our competitors very envious (especially Firestone dealers) so they are making and publishing misleading and inaccurate statements about "Mail Order" tires. But they do NOT compare their first quality tires with our Riversides . . . and their second-line tires with our Trail Blazers . . . for they know that to do so would immediately indicate how very much lower Ward's tires are priced. So these alarmed competitors have, cunningly enough, priced their "second-line" tires at exactly our first quality Riverside prices . . . and then they print incomplete comparison tables which are intended to make people believe that their prices, quality for quality, are the same as ours. Well, they are NOT! (See tables at the left.) And the chart directly below shows how Ward's Trail Blazers compare in quality as well as in price with other nationally known second-line tires. Will you please compare the specifications and the prices?

8 WAYS TO COMPARE TIRE VALUES

WEIGHT AS A MEASURE OF TIRE QUALITY IS NOT INCLUDED IN THIS TABLE FOR TWO REASONS:

1st, Because no two tires of the same brand and size weigh exactly alike, and

2nd, Because quality of rubber and cotton fabric used, rather than the compounded weight after being mixed with other ingredients is the determining factor. Reclaimed or second hand rubber weighs more than new rubber. Tires containing a large percentage of second hand rubber, therefore, weigh more than those made entirely of new rubber—even though the tires are exactly alike in size—so "Weight as a standard by which to measure tire quality MEANS NOTHING."

I have personally examined the specifications of the four tires described above and hereby certify that I know these specifications to be exact, accurate and devoid of prejudice.

DIRT AND SKY.

"Nebraska's only natural resources are dirt and sky," Henry R. Luce, editor of Fortune, writes in his very splendid publication. "Two generations of Nebraskans have, with plows, obliterated the grass, whose eternal waving made many an early homesteader's wife insane...There are in all 127,000 farms, each with house and barn and milk cows and sows and machines and radios...And the mind too has prospered, for of all of the states of world's favored nation, Nebraska is one of the two most literate."

In placing Nebraska under the microscope, Mr. Luce has been able to discover only two elements—dirt and sky. They are the most permanent resource of civilization. They continue to support large populations long after the lure of gold, and other precious metals, of oil, and of timber has faded and the thousands attracted to that particular region have taken up the "trail" again. It was a "gold rush" which gave Nebraska her first settlers. They did not leave the security and the comfort of their homes in the east for the purpose of taking up a tract of virgin prairie in Nebraska. They were bound for California, with hope of a quick fortune through a "gold strike" lending them strength and courage to endure the hardships of the long journey through strange and inhospitable country.

Why should a land which possessed only dirt and sky become the home of more than a million and a quarter people? It was treeless and forbidding to those, and it includes most of us, who derive a certain sort of companionship from trees. It was bleak and desolate in the heat of a blazing sun or the icy blast of a northwest wind. A large portion of it was so forsaken it gained the name of the Great American desert. Yet in spite of it, each decade has added to its population, and its wealth, until today there is little or no new land to be had, there are hundreds of towns and cities, there are thousands who are happy and contented and glad to be living within its borders.

Back of the story of Nebraska is the economic principle enunciated by Adam Smith: "The source of all wealth is land." Repeatedly during recent months of depression, the business map of the United States has given Nebraska the preferred position. We have had our troubles here. We have seen the bottom tumble out of prices for farm products until the huge quantities of foodstuffs produced in the state bring less than half which they formerly did. But we have not had the widespread unemployment which existed in many sections, and we have not had thousands facing starvation. There has been plenty to eat and shelter from the cold.

Among Nebraska's business men and factory operators there has not been that numbing spirit of futility which has become the habitual expression of the industrial sections. No one can derive joy in viewing the dazed, bewildered captains of business and industry scattered along the Atlantic seaboard. Hope has left them, and a sense of futility has taken its place. They are whipped and beaten. The cases of thousands of them, accustomed to downy beds and silken pajamas, are pathetic. When business was prosperous they were strong and valiant, boastful and arrogant, filled with energy and enthusiasm but when adversity came they lacked the stamina and the iron to face it resolutely and unflinchingly.

Out here in Nebraska, where from the beginning there was only sky and dirt, people came into competence through constant, unremitting struggle. They faced disappointment and hardship year after year, when drouth and pests destroyed their crops. They saw glorious fields of grain shriveled to brown in twenty-four hours but again next spring they tilled their fields and planted the seed. A Mencken would say that such superb faith was indubtable evidence of provincialism and peasantry. But the name used to describe it is really not very important. It has built a great state which still possesses the will to face the tasks ahead.

It is the land of "dirt and sky" which is solid, substantial and unmoveable in days of disaster. Its life has been a fight and not a joy ride but frequently the day comes when that ability to battle is the best asset possessed by God's most glorious animal. It has struggled for political recognition, for economic equality, for the maintenance of morals and ideals and it will continue to do so.

But Mr. Luce will never sense that feeling of security and comfort which soil gives to people when all about is confusion and chaos. He will never thrill to the sweet scent of newly plowed dirt, or the fragrance of fields waiting for the harvester. You must be of it to understand it and appreciate it.

But it is the wool from hundreds of thousands of Nebraska sheep, the hides and the beef from millions of cattle, the pork from hogs, the flour from wheat, and the starch from corn which keeps hundreds of mills occupied here and in the East. It is the land of "dirt and sky" which furnishes them with huge supplies of raw products, and a market for enormous quantities of their products.

AN INCOME TAX LESSON.

Secretary Mellon's proposal to bring small-salaried persons and wage-earners under the income tax by lowering the amount of exemption now allowed should give the average citizen food for thought as to how he would fare if the same system were also adopted by the states.

Agitation for the income tax plan which led to its adoption by the United States government about 18 years ago was based on the idea of "making the rich pay." Up to that time governmental expenses had been met chiefly from tariff duties, internal revenue tax on tobaccos and liquors, and a few miscellaneous sources. Those favoring the income tax heralded it as a panacea to transfer the burdens from the backs of the common people to the wealthy classes. Instead of this, the old taxes remained in effect and were increased.

Now that the receipts have fallen off materially, due to diminished incomes of those possessing large fortunes, the country is confronted with an official suggestion to increase the number of income tax payers by taking in the common herd. In this way, says Mr. Mellon, everybody will be made to feel that he has a direct stake in the government.

In other words, the income levy is "just another tax" and everybody will have to pay it, if the secretary of the treasury has his way. That is something worth while for each man and woman, whatever his or her occupation may be, to fix firmly in mind.

There has been some clamor in Nebraska to have an income tax imposed by the state. If that were done, it would sooner or later work out just as it has under federal auspices. At some time the revenue would become insufficient to meet all governmental demands, and those in authority would begin to squeeze the orange a little harder to get more juice out of it.

Nebraska will do well to stay in the middle of the road. With no bonded indebtedness, and by adhering to the "pay-as-you-go" policy in making public improvements, this state has been able to hold down its expenditures and taxes better than some of its neighbors. While some political out-cry is heard about taxation, this refers mainly to the cost of county and local government and the support of schools.

An income tax, either state or national, does not reduce other taxes. It merely encourages greater spending and provides the wherewithal for that purpose.

ARGENTINA CELEBRATES.

On Monday the people of Argentina celebrated the one hundred and twenty-first anniversary of their declaration of independence from Spain. Since the climate and products of that country are more nearly identical with those of the United States than those of any other country it should have a particular interest for us, yet Americans know comparatively little about it.

For instance, there are probably millions of people in the United States who never heard of Jose de San Martin, yet his name is revered as greatly by the Argentines as is that of Washington by the people of this nation. We know considerable of Simon Bolivar, liberator of the northern portion of South America, yet San Martin, contemporary of Bolivar, was his equal in all respects and his superior in some. He was one of the most unselfish patriots the Latin race ever produced.

San Martin was born in Argentine, but educated in Spain. He became an officer in the army of that country, but when his native land declared its independence he resigned his commisison and joined the patriots. He quickly became the leader of the army, and not only freed his own country, but crossed the Andes, freeing Chile and Peru. Bolivar went to his assistance in the latter country and after the two generals had held a conference San Martin withdrew, leaving the direction of everything to Bolivar. He had been proclaimed protector, and could have been at the head of all of the governments which his prowess had brought into being, but he was without personal ambition and after his work was done he sailed away to Europe, dying in France at the age of seventy-two years.

The Argentine republic has had a rather troubled existence, but is one of the most prosperous countries in South America, with a population of approximately eleven millions. Buenos Aires, the capital, is one of the most beautiful and wealthy cities in the world, with a population of two and a quarter millions.

There is practically no middle class in Argentine. There are those who own and those who work, and it will remain this way if the owners have their way about it. This to some extent accounts for the unrest which is apparent, and which may result in an epochal change at any time.

CADMAN'S VIEW OF JAZZ.

Recent comments of Charles Wakefield Cadman, distinguished American composer of Indian music, on jazz furnish an interesting series of speculations concerning the future of that form of music which has for more than a decade been a source of constant conflict among musical theorists.

Perhaps to the surprise of musical conservatives, Mr. Cadman says jazz is important. That doesn't mean he gives it a high standing in the final analysis. Jazz is important, he said, from the historical standpoint because it reflects accurately the topsy-turvy period of the day.

While he thinks it important from a historical standpoint, he feels jazz has no future. He predicts that it will vanish within a half century, not entirely but that it will be tossed into the great melting pot of music, out of which will emerge a new American music.

The composer says jazz lacks a necessary element to live, namely, repose. All great music, he says, has repose, a spiritual quality.

What Cadman sees as a fundamental difficulty of jazz, may also be considered a fundamental weakness of modern American life. It is charged and surcharged with activity. It is dynamic in all its aspects. But it lacks repose.

Lightning startles but gives no moisture. It is the quiet steady pouring of the rain which provide moisture for bountiful crops. Dynamic activity is the lightning which startles man. The repose in which substantial ideas are born, the nurture of constructive outlooks, is a real necessity of modern life.

EDUCATION'S TRUST.

For years, the pounding drive of spokesmen for organized education to the youth of the land has been a story of greater earnings which comes to those with greater education.

It is a more constructive note, a more praiseworthy note, which was recently sounded by Edward P. Costigan, Colorado senator-elect, in an address before a banquet at St. Louis of the Associate Harvard Clubs.

University men and women should more often be among the intellectual and spiritual trustees of civilization, Senator Costigan declared. "To university men and women," he said, "society has given much; from them it has the right to expect much. All citizens must answer the same summons; but far more often and to an exceptional degree, university men and women ought to be among the intellectual and spiritual trustees of civilization."

It is a note that needed to be sounded.

There has been too much talk about what education can do for those who acquire it. There has been too little talk about what the educated can do for society. There has been too much attention to the selfish advantages of education. There has been too little attention to the social responsibilities of education.

America has recognized the advantages of universal education. It knows that a democracy can be built only on the basis of a wide diffusion of knowledge and understanding. It needs to drive home as forcefully the contribution to be expected from the educated as the benefits they can expect to derive.

THE DIRECTION SENSE.

There's nothing magical or magnetic about a good sense of direction if the experiments of a University of Kansas scientist are correct.

The sense of direction, in the opinion of Prof. Harry R. DeSilva, is the result of training, combined with an ability to pay attention constantly to surroundings almost automatically.

Persons with unusual sense of direction, he found, lost their assurance when blindfolded, indicating that there was no automatic feeling for compass points. Sleep, too, he found, during travel served to leave persons with a confused sense of direction. The same persons, however, awake, could go through a myriad of shifts and turns and unerringly keep their direction, without apparent effort on the matter.

The child who unconsciously observes his surroundings as he goes about his play is the one most likely to have a strong sense of direction. It is a subtle quality but not as mysterious as some would believe it.

SLOWS OME AHEAD.

It seems at golf to be my lot,
Whatever time I play,
To get behind the tedious kind
Who daily down the way.

I've never gone around a course
But what I've always said,
"It seems to me, there's bound to be
A slowsome just ahead."

And what is strange, it matters not
At all with whom I play,
The other three with me agree;
The selfsame thing they say.
The while we wait for them to quit
The green whereon they tread,
As like as not, they'll say, "We've got
A slowsome just ahead!"

Yet back of us are players, too,
Who no doubt fume and fuss
And curse their fate that they must wait
A space of time for us.
They would go blithely on their way
And let the ball be sped
And well I know they think us slow
Who hold the place ahead.

Oh, youth, who long for wealth and fame,
Perhaps you think the old,
At tedious pace, still block the place
You're eager now to hold;
You think you should be on the green,
But age is there instead;
But this you'll learn, soon comes your turn
To be the man ahead.

Everyday Questions

Answered By

DR. S. PARKES CADMAN

(Copyright 1931, New York Tribune)

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

QUESTION.

I have everything for which I could wish and yet I am constantly discontented. In fact, I have never known happiness. In answering my letter kindly omit my address and the personal details.

ANSWER.

You state you are 25 years old. That is the one bright gleam in your gloomy communication, for at that age life has still much to offer you, provided you know how to avail yourself of its privileges. If you were situated as was a now deceased multimillionaire who declared at sixty years of age that he had never known what real happiness was, your outlook would be far more hopeless than it is or ought to be.

There are multitudes of well-to-do people in the world, and the United States has its full share, who have the security born of financial wealth, the assurance that good breeding confers, and are normally healthy in body. Yet they are as far from peace and tranquillity of heart as you are. On the other hand, poor but honest striving folk abound among us who enjoy life with such eagerness and zest that the pity of the rich is wasted on them. I gather is the gist of your inquiry is, why the difference?

Obviously it is not created by outward conditions. They react on it but do not cause it. So look within for the secret of your trouble. Are you the coddled child of wealthy parents, with the petulance and self-will which result from a false training? Do you measure yourself and what you think or do by external standards? Is your trust in what you have and not in what God is and you are. If so, you can never find satisfaction in self-centeredness nor in these perishable things.

Consecrate your soul to its Eternal Redeemer and your substance to an active stewardship in behalf of others less fortunate than yourself, then you will find blessedness and this is as superior to happiness as sunlight to moonlight. Experience is the final test of the issue and it sustains my plea for such a consecration.

QUESTION.

Denver, Colo.

What do you think of Gilbert K. Chesterton's criticisms of Masons, Kotarians and other fraternal bodies?

ANSWER.

We all admire Mr. Chesterton for the stimulating vigor of his thought an dthe well-night universal scope of his genius. Of course, as a convert, he is interested in the defense of the Roman Catholic church, and he very wisely insists that whether we agree with Catholic tearchings or not we should at least understand them.

I have pled for a mutual understanding of the kind between Protestants and Catholics for many years. But it is not advanced by loose and illiberal comments on the fraternities you mention. I am a Mason and proud of the distinction. To quote the late Bishop Potter: it is the one organization in which Jew and Christian can meet on an equal footing and contribute to each other's sense of justice and good will. Rotarians, Kiwanians and kindred groups are intent to a man on the other fellow's advantage as well as their own. They give generously to worthy causes, protect crippled children, provide asylums for the poor and the aged and respond at once when any local or national emergency calls for aid.

What if they do address each other as Tom, Dick or Harry? Religious fraternities likewise use first names in their intercourse. And if St. Francis, the beautific splendor of Christian living, is to be the standard, who among us measures up to his level? Would to God Catholics and Protestants did! I am not inclined to take Mr. Chesterton too seriously on this issue. Nevertheless the accent of a superiority complex in his remarks is at least regrettable and their substance is untrustworthy. The plain man of our American citizenship is neither a fool nor a knave. On the contrary he is the prop of this Republic, and in many essentials one of the shrewdest persons alive. Academic abuse of "Main Street" has gone about far enough. It will still be with us when Greenwich Village and some other haunts of our censorious critics have vanished.

QUESTION.

Asheville, N. C.

What benefit, if any, have thought and prayer when one breaks the laws of nature? Broken bones have first to be set.

ANSWER.

I agree that prayer without works is dead. Let it is a well known fact that when we are mentally run down disease is likely to take advantage of our depleted energies. Hence there is a close relation between the interrelated conditions of mind and body. Many nervous afflictions are due to inhibitions and repressions which product uncertainty and fear. Numerous patients of this kind receive benefit by change of scenery and still more by change of thought and aim.

Believing prayer secures good results because it transfers the invalid's attention from himself to the God who always helps. "Cast thy burden upon the Lord and He shall sustain thee' 'is no idle dream. It is a mighty factor in human experience. The realization of the Divine Presence in hours of sorrow and trial is welcomed by wise physicians as a powerful air to their efforts.

Renewal and recovery have been repeatedly achieved by quiet earnest confidence that all is for the best. Indeed it is the best mental attitude possible to men and women. Dr. Hyslop, a prominent medical authority of London, testifies as one whose career has been chiefly concerned with mental suffering: "I believe that of all the hygienic measures to counteract depression of spirits and thwart all the miserable results of a distracted mind, I would undoubtedly give first place to the simple habit of prayer."

Obviously broken bones must be set and this is the surgeon's work. But even here it is often the case that first aid has been obtained by prayer. On the whole subject read "Psychology in Service of the Soul," by Leslie D. Weatherhead, published by the Abingdon Press, New York, for an interesting discussion on the intimate connection between religion and medicine.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

GOVERNMENT APPROVES SERUM FOR SNAKE BITE

During the vacation season, anyone who goes fishing or hunting or camping may be the victim of a snake bite. It is worth knowing that a serum has been perfected for snake venom which will prevent the most serious consequences. It has been approved by the United States health service. A tube of the serum in a convenient package for putting in a first-aid kit can be obtained at any drug store.

Dr. Clendening

The serum is prepared much as diphtheria antitoxin is prepared—by collecting venom from the snake and injecting small amounts into a horse until the animal produces an immunizing substance in the blood serium. When this immunity is sufficiently strong some of the horse's blood serum is extracted and put up in vials under aseptic conditions. After being tested for strength, it is marketed in the form described above.

The anti-venom serum protects against the bite of all species of our poisonous snakes—the rattlesnake, the moccasin and the copperhead. Each tube will neutralize fifty times the lethal dose of a rattlesnake bite of average severity.

The best time to administer the serum is about three hours after the bite has been received. This allows for time to obtain serum, even if none is handy at the time.

In the meantime emergency treatment consists of putting a touriquet (or constriction) around the limb—leg or arm—above where the bite is. As most snake bites are either on the leg or arm, this is feasible. It should not be put on too tight or left on too long. The second part of the emergency treatment is to make incisions in the skin all around the site of the bite. This allows the serum which is saturated with snake venom to get out. This should be helped by suction either by the mouth or a breast pump or rubber bulb of any kind.

Many snakes, especially rattlers, do not have any venom in their fangs. For this reason many snake bites have no consequences at all. The legend has arisen, possibly from this cause, that rattlesnake bites are never fatal. As a matter of fact, they cause death in from 10 to 25 per cent of cases. A sure sign that a snake bite is inflicted from a reptile with active venom is that the bite will begin to sting and pain and ache. Snake venom is very irritating to animal tissue, and causes an enormous outpouring of blood and lymph into the tissue spaces around the deposit of serum. Following the pain, therefore there is swelling and discoloration.

There are three species of poisonous snake in the United States that are numerous—the rattlesnake, the moccasin and the copperhead. Geographically, the rattlesnake is found in the southwest most abundantly—in Texas and then going north up the Mississippi valley states as far as Wisconsin and west to the Pacific coast. The moccasin is found largely in the southeastern states—Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, etc. The copperhead has a wide geographical distribution, but is largely in the Allegheny region.

QUESTION.

F. N. R.: "I have a problem about which I would like some advice. I am troubled with asthma and catarrh and I want to know what is recommended as a remedy for each."

ANSWER.

Nasal catarrh and bronchial asthma frequently go together. When the catarrh is cleared up by proper nose and threat treatment, the attacks of asthma are frequently lessened. The treatment of asthma is too complicated to attempt thorough instruction by newspaper articles and should be left in the hands of your family physician.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

An Unfriendly Land

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Whate're befall I pray beware
And never yield to grim despair.
—Old Mother Nature.

Those who are in bad situations and yield to despair are never those who win out. No, sir, they never win out. The only thing to do is to hold fast to hope and keep right on trying. Flip the Terrier was lost on the desert. He was very much lost. He hadn't the least idea where the ranch at which he had been staying with his master, Farmer Brown's Boy, was. It was night when he became lost or probably he would not have ventured to chase Kit the Desert Fox so far because the great heat would have stopped him before he had gone far enough to lose his way. But in the night it had been fairly cool and so he had run until he was so tired he could run no more.

Toward morning Flip had curled up under a dry bush and from sheer weariness had fallen asleep. Now, sleep is a wonderful thing. It restores hope and courage. Flip was awakened by the warm rays of the sun. At first he couldn't think where he was. Everything about him was strange. There was not one familiar thing. Then he remembered what had happened.

"I'm lost," thought he. "I'm hungry and I am thirstier than ever I was before in all my life, but anyway I am no longer tired. Now that it is daylight I ought to be able to find my way back."

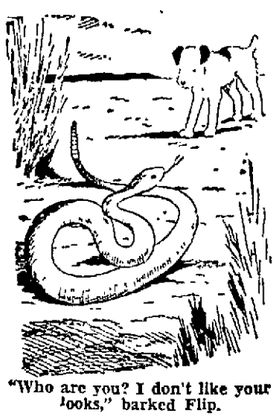

He yawned and slowly got to his feet and stretched. As he did so there was a strange sharp buzzing sound so close that without realizing what he was doing he jumped to one side. Then he looked where that sound was coming from and what he saw made him back still farther away and do it in a hurry. There, coiled on the sand and staring at him with unfriendly eyes that never once winked, was a member of the Snake family. His tail was standing straight above his coils and that buzzing sound seemed to be coming from that tail. It was. He was looking at Buzztail the Rattlesnake.

"Who are you? I don't like your looks," barked Flip. "What are you making all that noise for?"

"To give you fair warning to keep away from me," hissed Buzztail.

"Why should I?" demanded Flip. "I could shake you to death if I wanted to."

"Don't try it," hissed Buzztail. "You must be a stranger in these parts or you would know better than to think of trying to do such a thing. If you want to ever get back where you came from be polite to those you meet. I am Buzztail and those I bite die. Those who live on the desert know it and the wise keep out of my way. Now, leave me alone and don't say that I didn't give you fair warning. I don't go looking for trouble, but I don't run away from it When careless people like you don't see me I give fair warning by shaking the rattle on my tail. Then if they get hurt it is their own fault. Could anything be fairer than that?"

"Who are you? I don't like your looks," barked Flip.

Flip admitted that nothing could be fairer and decided that the least he could do was to be polite. "I hope you will excuse me," said he. "You see, I didn't know. Can you tell me where I can get a drink of water?"

"Water!" hissed Buzztail scornfully. "Water! I hardly know what it looks like We desert folk don't need water. If you are going to live here you'll have to get along without water."

"But I can't!" cried Flip. "No one can."

Didn't I just say that we desert folk do?" demanded Buzztail. "If you want water you better get back where you came from."

"I guess I had," replied Flip meekly. "I really must have water. I simply must. Goodbye and thank you for your warning."

Flip turned away and started to trot across the desert. Jolly, bright Mr. Sun had not been long on his daily climb up in the sky, but already the heat was very great and growing greater every minute. There was no friendly tree under which to find shade. The only plants were cactus plants — some small, some of good size but strange shapes, and some as big as trees, but all covered with sharp spines. It was an unfriendly land. It was indeed.

Here and There

Must Learn To Fly Flag.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When the 10,000 or more public schools in Missouri open their doors next fall they will do so under the added necessity of displaying an American flag under a state measure just signed by Governor Caulfield. The new law specifies that the American flag shall be displayed at all pubic schools during school sessions.

Even though the bill as written by the only woman representative in the Missouri general assembly may be and probably is, specific as to how and where flags shall be displayed, it is very likely that there are many regulations of custom relating to the flag and its use that will be little understood by many of those who will be made responsible for carrying out the orders of state lay.

News dispatches telling of the governor's approval of the bill merely state that public school will be required to "display" the American flag after next September, although the bill may provide how the display shall be made. If the display shall be by flying the flag on a staff over the school building or in front of the building, one method of treatment is provided by custom and if it displayed within the schoolroom another treatment is to be followed.

Execution of the details may be expected to bring considerable grief to the teachers, or pupils or janitors responsible for carrying out the order. Under army treatment, the American flag is displayed only from sunrise to sunset. This, it is to be assumed, for the display of a flag flown from a staff over or adjacent to a building. The color is hoisted briskly and is lowered slowly. It must be received in the arms to prevent contact with the ground and must be folded a certain way, according to custom, if not regulations. To place a flag at half mast, it is raised to the top of the staff and then lowered to its posiion at half mast. In lowering a flag at half mast it must be raised to the peak and then lowered. On Memorial day the flag is flown at half mast until noon and then chockablock until sunset or other time of lowering.

Inside, when the flag is displayed flat, as against a wall, either horizontally or vertically, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, or the observer's left. Or if suspended, as across a room or street, it should be hung vertically, with the union to the north if the flag is hung in an east and west street or room and to the east in a north and south street. Expression of mourning in connection with a flat flag is with crepe at the fastening points of the flag or at the center of its top.

One of the values under this new order is the opportunity to teach public school children proper use of the American flag.

WHAT'S IN FASHION?

Serviceable Tennis Dresses

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

Left: Dress with gay sash. Right: Bruyere's adjustable criss-cross dress.

NEW YORK, May 26—A good service. That's important in tennis. Important in tennis clothes, too.

Run...jump...stretch...twist. It takes good clothes to stand it. Fashionable tennis clothes can. Cut right—for freedom. Made right—for strength.

They look good too. Look good in action or in rest. With fan pleating and box pleating in skirts. Snugly belted or sashed waistlines. Necklines cut in becoming V's or ovals or squares. And touches of scalloping, pin-tucking or contrasting color.

Fashionable tennis dresses are made of such sturdy materials as washable flat crepe, shantung, silk broadcloth, pique and linen.

White, the traditional tennis color, is still the most in fashion. Yellows are important, too, and almost as flattering to browned skins as white is.

Sleeveless Dresses.

Seasoned tennis players insist on sleeveless dresses They know there's nothing so annoying as a shoulder seam that stops your arm swing in the middle.

Bruyere has deigned a smart tennis dress with adjutable criss-cross bands. These bands start at the front of the bodice, cross over in the back and return, forming a belt which fastens in front. This dress can be as snug fitting or as loose as you desire. Simply by adjusting the belt. It reminds us of the little old pinafore aprons with their crossed over bands. A great dress for active sports, as the sketch shows.

Divided Skirts.

The newest kind of tennis dress—and it's a practical idea, too—is the one with "culotte" skirt. "Culotte" is the French word for breeches but the skirt doesn't look like breeches at all.

It's a divided skirt. Not one of those cumbrous affairs you see worn at formal horse shows. But a tricky arrangement of panels and seams and fullness and pleats, so that when not in action the skirt looks like any graceful, flared skirt—as you can see in the sketch.

It actually is divided in the middle, though. And strenuous players like it.

One-Piece Dresses.

Most tennis dresses are one-piece. Then the top doesn't part company with the skirt when you get reaching. But lots of them look like two-piece dresses.

They have yoke top skirts or shirtwaist bodices that give the effect of the two-piece skirt and blouse costume

Crocheted wool yokes on silk tennis dresses are a new idea this season. So are pockets in the front of the skirt or the waist.

Tri-colored striped belts are worn with many of the white tennis dresses. One color or two contrasting colors in soft girdles are new.

The culotte dress—trousers masquerading as skirt.

These girdles are sometimes twisted and looped at one side. Sometimes they are made of two or three two-inch bandings, tied together, knotted at one side, and have their ends fringed. They're new and interesting, these girdles on tennis dresses, and are always in gay contrasting colors whether used with white or pastel colored dresses.

And for players who want the freedom of a sleeveless dress but who burn easily, there's a new idea of adjusting a sheer linen or silk scarf under the dress so the top of the shoulders is covered. They're still free to move, but the tender spot on top is protected.

Six Arrow Pursuit Planes Bought By Chinese Officials

A deal has been closed with the Chinese officials by the Arrow Aircraft & Motors corporation for the immediate delivery of six Arrow Pursuit planes in China, the planes to be used for student training work. The ships, now being assembled at the Arrow factory, will be standard models equipped with 100 horsepower Kinner motors. The only extra equipment to be installed is compasses.

James Fisher, manager of the aircraft division of the Arrow corporation, will accompany the planes to their destination in China and will familiarize the Chinese flying instructors with the construction and servicing of the ships. Mr. Fisher is a transport pilot, having served as a pilot with the Italian navy air corps during the World war.

The order for the Lincoln made planes was placed only after the Chinese officials had studied and compared performance, durability and operating costs of dozens of makes of light training planes both in this country and Europe. The Arrow Pursuit is a two place ship wth a top speed of 118 miles per hour and a cruising speed of 100 miles per hour. The Chinese order brought the total number of Arrows sold by the factory and Arrow dealers over the country to 15 during the first three weeks of May.

GENEALOGIST SEEKS PARCHMENT BURIED WITH RABBI'S BODY

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Exhuming the body of an eighteen century rabbi in a cemetery in Czechoslovakia will be the next step in the ancestor hunt in which Viola Root Cameron, international genealogist, is almost continually engaged.

Mrs. Cameron, blonde, small, quiet-mannered, hopes to find with the body a parchment which will supply some missing branches on the family tree of a wealthy New York client. She will go to Europe this summer personally to oversee the exhumation.

Such parchments, she says, were buried with the rabbis in the eighteenth century. The one she seeks was written between 1750 and 1800. If procured it will open a whole new field in tracing ancestry, she believes.

BISMARCK HOTEL CHICAGO

Scanning New Books

BY RICHARD MASSOCK.

NEW YORK—Mexico's turbulent history, the masses of its simple Indian people, their past, present and and future, are sketched by Carleton Beals in his "Mexican Maze."

The title is well taken, for the book reveals a maze of civilizations, piled in layers on each other.

Leaves from a correspondent's notebook of 15 years of war, revolution and peace in Mexico, the book is colored with hot sunlight, Indian processions, fiestas and blood.

In the role of traveling reporter, the author meets first the Mayan peasantry of Yucatan in their white pajama-costumes, sandals and sombreros.

Generals—shooting up hotel ballrooms, carousing, answering reprimands with bullets, exacting bribes—swagger through the pages. For example, General "Aspirin."

"I have a headache, my general," said his aide.

"Here is some aspirin," said the general and he blew his aide's brains out. It was a good joke and everybody laughed heartily.

Witch-doctors and love potions, trains with a car of soldier-guards to ward off bandits, surging throngs in cathedrals at fiestas, Aztec priests sacrificing human victims, Spanish conquistadores torturing gold out of Indian chiefs, American engineers tricking peasants out of oil rights, religious miracles and military legends follow one another.

Militarism's stifling heel, the lack of racial homogeneity, the oppression of the landholders are described in thhe later history, as well as the religious complications—Catholic churches built on top of ancient temples, old Indian gods worshipped under the names of white saints.

As symbol of the nation, Beals gives Huitzilopochtli (Aztec idol), demanding its "due meed of innocent blood." Yet he expects out of the Indians to emerge "one of the most fascinating civilizations og modern times."

The book is illustrated with Indian caricatures by Diego Rivera, one of the foremost Mexican artists.

Red Dictator.

Stalin, Russia's man of steel, becomes the man of flesh in Isaac Don Levine's biography of the soviet dictator.

Levine sees him as "a big business man, a pohtical boss, imbued with the businesslike spirit of Americanism.

He is not a misfit, as revolutionists so often are, but an executive, whose right hand is a "mailed fist" (his left is so withered it won't open), who "lives, eats and dresses likean American railroad conductor.

Wild Indian Maiden.

Tiffany Thayer's "Thirteen Men" had a success of sorts, being a novelty, in that it traced back the life histories of a dozen jurors and the man they condemned tyng them all together.

The idea of his new novel, "Call Her Savage," is not so new, but he develops it through panting episodes of unbridled love. His heroine Nasa is a half-breed love child, who gives herself to one white man after another until a redskin finally tames her.

CHICAGO WOMAN CHARGED WITH POISONING FOUR

Named in Insurance Policies by Ten; Five Have Died.

DRUG IS FOUND IN BODIES OF VICTIMS

Husband, Nephew and Two Boarders in Her Home Succumbed.

CHICAGO, May 26 — (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Summers, 47-year-old widow, was held to the grand jury on four charges of murder today at the recommendation of a coroner's jury which heard evidence that four men who died in her home were victims of slow poisoning.

Mrs. Summers was found to have been made beneficiary in life insurance policies of ten persons, five of whom died while living at her home.

Dr. Clarence Muehlberg, coroner's chemist, testified that he found the woman's husband, Thomas, 37, her orphaned nephew, Thomas Meyers, 17, and two boarders, William Reiman and Thomas Lanagan, succumbed to poison, the first three apparently from small doses over a long period, and Lanagan of acute poisoning

Woman Sobs Heavily.

The woman sobbed heavily as she heard the verdict. Coroner Herman N. Bundesen ordered her taken into custody immediately and held for grand jury action.

The chemist's testimony revealing the analysis of poison in the bodies of Lanagan and Reiman was a surprise as it had not been announced that their bodies were exhumed. Dr. Muehlberger said Reiman's organs had previously been removed, but he found traces of the poison in the muscles, skin and hair

The death of the Meyers boy on May 14 brought on the investigation and the subsequent demand of her husband's relatives for an inquiry into his death last August 9.

EARLY TRIAL OF TRIO PLANNED

O'Connor and Lee were handcuffed together, while Britt wore the bracelets alone. With the Illinois officers, Sergt. Roy Steffans, Sergt. Buck Kempster, Charles Touzinsky and Hal Roberts, forming their immediate guard, the three prisoners posed for cameramen at the southeast corner of the station. With this formality over, the trio was hustled into waiting cars, and the dash to the penitentiary began. A police car containing four officers took the lead. Next came the police riot car with O'Connor and Lee and four guards, while Britt made the trip in a state sheriff's automobile. Three other automobiles and two motorcycle officers completed the small army that sped east on P street, south on Thirteenth and thence to the prison, where another crowd waited to catch a glimpse of the gangsters.

Gangsters Appear Carefree.

The same geniality that characterized them enroute from Chicago to Lincoln was in evidence when O'Connor, Lee and Britt, deprived of their possessions, were led by Warden Fenton to cells on the second floor jail building. They appeared to be well pleased with the arrangements, the warden stated. O'Connor and Britt were placed in a cell together, and Lee by himself. No significance was attached to this arrangement.

"No special preparations have been made to hold the trio," Warden Fenton stated. "There will be no extra guard. We don't need it. These men won't make trouble," the warden declared. "They never do. Nobody has asked to see the men, and none will be allowed to see them without authority from Sheriff Hensel."

Nothing is known as to what arrangements, if any, have been made to procure counsel for the hoodlums. It is possible that Louis Piquet or some other of the lawyers who attempted to secure release of the trio in Chicago on habeas corpus writs may defend them here.

Travel Without Handcuffs.

Shortly after the train pulled out of Omaha, the three gangsters were taken one by one to the washroom to permit them to prepare for breakfast. They wore no handcuffs while on the train. Breakfast was served in the special car, boards used for card games being utilized for tables. O'Connor and Lee ate heartily of ham and eggs with coffee, while Britt contented himself with coffee and a roll.

The light-hearted attitude of the bandit trio became more pronounced as the train neared Lincoln. One of the principal topics of discussion between the officers and their prisoners was the luck enjoyed by the latter in the pinochle and rummy games with which the trip was enlivened. The prisoners "took" their guards for a few nickles at the cards. When the handcuffs were snapped on at Havelock, Britt facetiously suggested that the officers don the cuffs, while the gangsters carry the machine guns to mislead the spectators waiting at the station.

The doors of the special car were locked and the windows closed all the way from Chicago. Crowds, notified in advance by newspapers, gathered at every stop. The first unusual incident occurred at Galesburg, Ill., a former haunt of O'Connor and Lee.

At Galesburg a friend was permitted to talk to one of the three gangsters. He gave the bandit suspect $20 and then left the train as it pulled out of Galesburg. Fearing that some plot to ambush the train or otherwise attempt the release of the trio had been concocted, officers redoubled their precautions when the train pulled into Burlington, Ia., the next stop.

As the train left, three boys jumped onto it. Sergeant Buck Kempster of the Illinois police went to the car on which they had jumped and forced them to come inside. They were made to pay their fares and then leave at the next stop. Officers concluded that the "scare" was nothing but the effort of the boys to gain a free ride.

Guarded By 19 Officers.

OMAHA, May 26—(AP)—Three southern Illinois hoodlums, charged with the $2,800,000 robbery of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust Co., arrived here en route to Lincoln, Neb., in custody of Sheriff Hensel at 7 30 a. m. from Chicago. They were to arrive in Lincoln at 9:05 a m.

Nineteen heavily armed officers, four of them with machine guns, guarded the special car in which John Britt, Thomas O'Connor and Howard Lee, the three who must, face trial in the Lincoln robbery, arrived here.

Their arrival here was without incident. The three prisoners lolled luxuriously in the car while the police officers outside cast forbidding glances at any stroller who happened near.

Omaha Officers On Train.

The train bearing the prisoners was met at Council Bluffs, Ia., by four Omaha detectives, who managed to get on the car after considerable argument and displaying of badges, despite the fact that Inspector of Detectives Paul Sutton had wired the train that it would be met by Omaha policemen at the Bluffs.

At Omaha the car remained locked for several minutes after the train arrived. Finally, a door was opened cautiously for a minute to permit Inspector Sutton and several of his aides to enter. Two newspapermen were finally permitted to board the car.

Prevent Taking Pictures.

"You can't talk to them and you can't take pictures," said the sheriff, "but you can look at them."

The three sat in shirt sleeves, smoking cigarets and chatting with the policemen who surrounded them. They appeared to enjoy being the center of attraction, though one snapped down a window shade when a photographer tried to shoot a picture through the window.

County Attorney Towle is remaining in Illinois until at least the latter part of this week. During this time he will seek to build evidence to refute alibis which the three bandit suspects are expected to present when brought to trial.

EXTRA SESSION TO MEET JUNE 9

the early afternoon to receive his message relative to appropriations.

While Governor Bryan will have some supplementary suggestions to offer regarding departmental and institutional needs, he will not submit a new budget. The governor considers the budget he sent to the legislature last January as retaining its status. He is not authorized by the constitution to present a new budget at this time.

He may, however, recommend to the legislature changes or additions to the budget at any time. To incorporate such recommendations, involving an increase of appropriations, will require a three-fifths majority in each chamber, the same as if they were initiated by the legislature itself.

As pointed out heretofore, there must not only be a three-fifths majority in the house and the senate to pass any item that was not in the original executive budget, but a two-thirds majority in each wing will be needed to make the money available before next September. As the next biennium starts July 1, official expending agencies will be tied up in the conduct of their business unless the emergency clause is on the bill or bills to be passed.

RURAL STUDENTS ARE GRADUATED

Marti Addresses County Eighth Grade Pupils At Promotion.

Schools Combine Choirs To Furnish Music At Annual Ceremony.

Two hundred ninety rural school students in Lancaster county completing eighth grade work heard Lloyd J. Marti, local attorney, speak on "Paying the Price" at the annual promotion exercises held Tuesday afternoon in the activities building at the college of agriculture.

Marti emphasized the fact that the really fine and worth while things of life cannot be found "on the bargain counter." He stated that the present day offers youth an extraordinary opportunity which can best be taken advantage of by those who continue with the education and training.

The speaker urged that those desiring to become nurses should become trained nurses, that those desiring to become farmers should become master farmers and that those desiring to enter other fields of work should "pay the price" necessary to become experts.

Choir is Feature.

Six hundred members of Lancaster county rural school choirs were brought together for the first time as a chorus to furnish part of the program for the promotion exercises. The choirs, all of which have been organized during the past two and one-half months, were received with high favor by the large audience. J. L. Heilman conducted the chorus, with Miss Margaret McGregor as pianist.

An exhibition of Knighthood of Youth work was included in the activities of the afternoon. All schools that were entered in this work during the past school years exhibited the work of their groups. Miss Daisy Simmons of Washington, D. C., who has been in Nebraska for the past several months organizing Knighthood of Youth clubs presided over this part of the program.

Rev. F. F. Travis gave the invocation and Rev Jack Leonard the benediction Duane Ketelhut and Newton Copple presented an accordian duet. Presentation of eighth grade diplomas was made at the close of the exercises by County Superintendent Jesse J. Correll.

ALL BUILDINGS ON ONE SQUARE

This arrangement will provide the privacy that has been demanded for the health division visitors.

Auto Entrances.

For the police department the tentative plans call for an automobile entrance at the north and south sides of that section. This will be for the convenience of the emergency cars now owned by the city. They will be handy to the police and will enable the loading and unloading of persons being taken to or from the station. It is likely the cells will be on the second floor.

The heating plant will be in the basement to be built under the central section. From here all buildings on the square will be heated. Eash department will be charged its proportionate share of the cost of operating and maintaining the plant. The basement for the heating equipment will be the only one under the main structure unless it is found there is need for more such room for the fire department, and for general storage.

The gasoline station will remain in its present location, but the coal yard is to be moved to a location selected by Commissioner Foster, head of that department. It also is possible that a repair shop for the fire department will be located between the filling station and main building.

Remove Cobble Stones.

When the coal yard is removed the cobble stones now used along Ninth street north from Q street, will go also. They will be turned over to the park department and used in building shelters for the buffaloes, elk and deer in the southwest corner of Pioneers park. When offered to Mr. Bair, he said at once that is the use to which they would be put.

A decision on how the garage will be built will not be reached until after Commissioner Schroeder inspects the new garage of the telephone company at Twenty-first and L streets, Tuesday evening, in company with Mr. Wilson and other members of the council. It is likely, however, that the structure will be one building at the northwest corner of the square. Tentative plans call for two sections. One will be used by the water department, and the other for the storage of passenger cars. At the north end of the water department section there is to be a repair shop. Whether this will be built across the end or down the sides will depend upon whether Mr. Schroeder desires an entrance at that end.

Allow For Expansion.

In planning this structure it is likely that it will be made of sufficient size to allow for considerable expansion with the growth of the activities of the city. It would be false economy to do otherwise, Mr. Wilson declared.

Nothing has been done with reference to the style of architecture for the main building, according to Mr. Wilson. Neither has there been any decision to the color of the brick, and the trim. "The only thing we know," Mr. Wilson added, "is that the entire layout will be such that it will fit in with the buildings in the immediate vicinity, with particular stress being given to the university setting."

Now that the work is actually under way, Mayor Zehrung declared, after the conference, the entire Market square plant will be built as fast as possible.

STRAIGHTENING OF ROAD AT DE SOTO BRINGS PROTESTS

Protests against straightening of the state highway between Fort Calhoun and DeSoto on the Omaha-Blair road were made to State Engineer Cochran Tuesday by a small delegation from near DeSoto.

The straightening, Mr. Cochran said, was done in accordance with the state and federal policy of straightening roads before paving them. It will also avoid a section where seepage conditions would make maintenance difficult, he said.

One of the objectors said it left his fine new home some distance from the road and that it would cut up his farm into small pieces.

GRAVEL FREIGHT CUT PREDICTED

Expect Rail Body To Extend Reduction To All Shippers.

State-wide reductions in gravel freight rates, effective from all railroad pits in the state to all Nebraska destinations, were foreseen Tuesday as a result of action of the state railway commission in ordering all carriers to show cause why a general reduction should not be made.

The commission late Monday blocked the attempt to secure reduced rates only from such points as would benefit chiefly a single firm, after extensive protests from other gravel men. As a result of the criticism of the suggested reductions, the commission declared further investigation needed.

The hearing was taken under advisement with notice to all interested parties that the commission would enter a resolution citing all carriers to appear by June 5 to show cause why a general reduction should not be made.

Only three of the seven railroads had applications on file for the reductions. The commission declared that it wanted all carriers as well as interested shippers to participate in the new hearing June 5 in the commission hearing room.

Members of the railway commission were apparently of the opinion that if the railroads could make lower rates for certain pits and producers and do it profitably, that similar reductions should be accorded generally.

The special reductions asked at the Monday hearing principally affected pits operated by the Lyman-Richey Sand & Gravel Co., the hearing disclosed.

Started For Nicaragua.

The "Blue Streak" started for Nicaragua after the recent earthquake with a Daily News reporter aboard, but it got only as far as Brownsville, Tex. It was then taken to Wilmington, Del., reconditioned and flown back to Chicago.

Short was one of the nation's veteran pilots. In 1926 he was awarded the Harmon international trophy for his remarkable record in flying the mail between Cleveland and Chicago.

Farmers who saw the accident said the right wing appeared to be shaking loose from the rest of the ship. Pilot Short dumped the gasoline, cut off the motor and tried to glide to a landing, but the wing dropped off when the ship was about thirty feet from the ground, and the plane nosed into a field.

Members of the North Dakota capitol commission, in Lincoln Tuesday visiting the Nebraska state capitol, are shown above with members of the Nebraska party, which is entertaining them here. In the front row from left to right are: W. L. Younkin, superintendent of construction of the Nebraska capitol; T. R. Kimball, prominent Omaha architect and professional adviser of the Nebraska commission who wrote the program for the capitol competition here ten years ago; Frank L Anders, Fargo, secretary of the North Dakota commission; Mrs. G. A. Fraser, wife of a member of the North Dakota commission, Mrs. F. L. Conklin, wife of the vice president of the North Dakota commission, and W. E. Hardy, member of the Nebraska commission.

In addition, there are roadsters, horses used for driving or riding on ordinary roads, all classes of the satiny, smooth, proud-necked saddle horses, Hackney ponies and horses, Shetland ponies, Welch ponies, high school and trick ponies, jumpers, bikes, driven to sulkies. Even if you don't know horses, the horse show will give you a chance to see animals that have a national reputation. In no previous year has the program been so well-rounded nor have so many leading stables sent entries, which adds to the interest of the Lincoln show

Some $6,000 in stakes and twenty-five trophies have been given. Of the money, two championship stakes of $1,000 each have been offered, one for a three-gaited and one for a five-gaited horse. If you are one of the seventy-nine thousand in Lincoln who admires horses, but who does not understand their points, here's a tip the reporter learned Tuesday morning The threegaited mounts have close-cropped manes, so as not to spoil the very fine arch of their neck, and tails cropped close to the end. The five-gaited saddle horses carry the full tail and mane.

Entries Worth Half Million.

The 150 entries, including the local horses, are worth half a million dollars.

The Jo-Mar stables at Salina, Kas., owned by Nathan L. Jones, has sent half a dozen imported English heavy harness horses, to be shown in tandem and in the ladies' phaeton class. These entrants include Woodsport, a Hackney, for which $20,000, has been offered. E. G. Huntington of Ottawa, Ia., arrived with two fine show head, and George Brandeis of Omaha selected eight of his fine show string for the Lincoln competition.

Boyd Tucker of Vanita, Okla., who shows Tom Wood's "Title," which just took four first at the Columbia, Mo, show, is included with the horses brought from the Tucker stables. He is also entering in Lincoln, "Virginian," one of his three best saddle horses, a three-gaited chestnut, valued at $25,000. He brought eleven head.

Another of the Omaha entries comes from the Adolph Storz stables. Jimmie McClure is showing the Storz noted saddle and harness horses. Lincoln is unusually fortunate this year, for its horse show dates come between the Columbia, Mo, show and the South Shore in Chicago, one of the world's leading horse shows, to which the horses entered in Lincoln, and at least one of the judges will go from here.

Five horses from the Herbert M. Wolfe string at Kansas City came Tuesday, in charge of Dr. Sparks. His stable has produced more outstanding show horses than any other in this part of the worold.

Coliseum Decorated.

If you recall the state fair coliseum of fair times, you won't know it on horse show nights. The entire north end of the structure is to be done in a modernistic design of black and silver-crystal, which will sparkle beneath the lights. Eddie Jungbluth's sixteen-piece orchestra is to be outlined by this motif. On either side of the orchestra opening will be large silver horse shoes, and above, the words, "Lincoln Horse Show." Kite-shaped shields of the silver-crystal are set into a black background immediately before the first row of seats, and modernistic—the entire effect is modern— hang from the sides of the dome. The judges' stand is to be of lattice in the center of the track, which is 150 feet in diameter, and is to be turned into a floral bower with eight huge urns. The silver and black design is to be carried out further on the lattice. The music and the announcements will be carried by the public-address system, and the announcer will explain each event, the points for judging, and similar details, for the many who wish to know. The coliseum seats 2,500 people.

This show is being sponsored by the Lincoln chamber of commerce and the Saddle and Bridle club. Those in charge are eager for every one to know that both afternoon and evening performance are strictly informal. At the American Royal in Kansas City, one of the largest events of its kind in the United States, men come in their working clothes and parents bring the children, from the infant-in-arms on up.

NEBRASKA POWER REFINANCES BONLS

Refinancing of all outstanding bonds of the Nebraska Power company of Omaha at a lower interest rate was approved in an order issued Tuesday morning by the state railway commission.

As a result of the order, the company will sell $16,500,000 of first mortgage gold bonds, bearing 4 1-2 per cent interest. The bonds will be sold at 97 1-2 per cent of their par value to a New York concern.

RAY MOORE HURT WHEN MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO COLLIDE

Knocked unconscious in the crash, he was rushed to St. Elizabeth's hospital in Splain & Schnell's ambulance where he was attended by Dr. George E. Lewis, city physician. Moore suffered a dislocated right hip, bruises and abrasions about the left elbow, and a lacerated scalp. He recovered consciousness before noon.

SCHOOLS TO ASK LEVY INCREASE

top of the bulletin Dr. B. F. Bailey, president of the board says:

"In order to deal fairly with the children of the city, the board of education will be compelled soon to ask the help of all the people.

"Changes in conditions wholly outside the scope of the board's authority have brought financial obligations that can be met in only one of two ways: increasing the school revenue or by unfairness to the children and sacrifice of their best interests. One or the other cannot be avoided.

"By authority recently granted by the Nebraska legislature, the board will present to the people some time during the coming year a proposal designed to meet this situation."

The board also allowed a number of claims, and approved a suggestion by Mr. Lefler, that the vacation schools be continued this summer. The term will start June 8, and last six weeks Sessions will be from 8 a. m. to noon five days a week, in the Elliot school at Twenty-fifth and N streets. Tuition is $1 a week, payable in advance.

New teachers elected are Hazel Beechner and Mary Lingle. Miss Beechner will be a full time kindergarten assistant at a salary of $850, and Miss Lingle an assistant teacher at $720.

come. Messrs. Conklin and Fraser were accompanied by their wives.

T. R. Kimball of Omaha, who served 10 years ago as advisory architect to the Nebraska capitol commission in the beginning stages and his partner, W. L. Steele, brought the North Dakota visitors to Lincoln, after showing them around in the river city. From here the Dakotans will go to Denver to see the Colorado statehouse. Later, they expect to visit Lousiana, which is gettting ready to build a capitol modeled after the Nebraska one.

Structure Here Outstanding.

"We had heard so much about your capitol that we wanted to see it first of all," said one of the visiting commissioners. "We are exceedingly impressed with itand do not wonder that ithas attracted the notice of architects, artists, and building experts everywhere.

"For our own state we want a building which will typify civilization in its present state of advancement and at the same time meet the governmental needs. The Nebraska capitol will provide us many ideas and suggestions. Your people should feel proud of such a building."

North Dakota, they said, plans to spend $2,000,000 on its new capitol, replacing the one which burned several months ago. The site will be on high ground overlooking the Missouri river and its timbered bluffs and fertile lowlands.

Want Modern Structure.

"We have no preconceive ideas of what a state capitol should be" declared Adjutant General Fraser. "We are here to observe and learn, we are starting out, however, with the intention of following modern architectural developments rather than adhering to the old patterns of such buildings.

The capitol at Bismarck is not to be started this year. A preliminary period will be utilized by the commission in visiting other states, gathering information, and securing plans More than likely, an architectural competition similar to the one adopted by the Nebraska commission will be arranged.

Entertained at Noon.

The visitors were entertained for luncheon at the Capitol hotel, in company with W. E. Hardy and State Engineer Cochran of the Nebraska commission and W. L. Younkin, supervising architect for the capitol here

They called on Governor Bryan, chairman of the capitol commission, at his office just before noon, but the governor could not get away for the luncheon.

During the afternoon they paid a visit to the University of Nebraska and talked with Chancellor Burnett and other officials of the university. They expected to leave for Denver on a night train.

HERDMAN GIVEN INSURANCE WORK

Omaha Man Appointed as Chief of Combined State Breaus.

Lee Herdman of Omaha, well known democratic leader in the state metropolis, has been appointed by Governor Bryan to the position as chief of the combined bureau of insurance and securities at a salary of $4,000 per year. He will take charge on June 1, reheving J. L. Kizer, holdover official from the Weaver administration.

Mr. Herdman has long been identified with state politics and has always been a stalwart supporter of the late William Jennings Bryan and of Governor Bryan. He served as secretary of the democratic state committee once or twice. For four years he was clerk of the Nebraska Supreme court, from 1900 to 1903, inclusive.

During the former administration of Governor Bryan, Mr Herdman was receiver for the Lion Bonding Co. He is said to have adjusted several thousand claims against that concern, only two of which were taken into court. His salary at that time was $500 a month.

Herdman is an attorney and has specialized in commercial and insurance law He has a reputation for unusual political acumen. His appointment is the second major one for Douglas county under the Bryan regime, the other being that of State Sheriff M L. Endress

Mr. Bryan said that the Herdman appointment at $4,000 a year will save $4,500 annually as compared with the salaries of two officers who supervised insurance and blue sky matters during the previous state administration. Lloyd Dort was insurance commissioner at $5,000 a year under Governor Weaver, and J. L. Kizer was blue sky chief at $3,600. Mr Kizer has remained in charge of both bureaus at Bryan's request, up to this time.

It is expected that there will be some changes in the examining personnel of the insurance bureau after Herdman goes in.

MUNY POOL WILL OPEN SATURDAY

Renovation of the municipal swimming pool and bath house at Twenty-second and M streets has been completed and the opening for the summer has been set for Saturday morning of this week. Commissioner Bair, head of the park department, announced Tuesday. The public tennis courts at the pool and elsewhere in the park system, have been open for several weeks.

The pool will be under the direction of the recreation board this summer, Earl Johnson, director of city recreation, being in direct charge of activities. By placing the activities at the pool under the control of the recreation board, it was believed that a large number of swimming events that have not heretofore been undertaken there can be initiated this year, thereby making the place much more popular.

West Coast Cinder Stars Coming to Lincoln

Frisco Club Lines Up Squad 25 Track Aces For A. A. U. Carnival

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26—(AP)—Percy Locey, San Francisco Olympic club athletic director, says he believes his club will win the national A. A. U. track and field championship at Lincoln, Neb., July 3 and 4, terming it a probable duel between two Pacific coast teams.

Bringing 25-Man Team.

Locey, who yesterday started a campaign to raise funds with which to take a 25-man team to Lincoln, said the local organization held the upper hand over the Los Angeles Athletic club, which won the national title in Pittsburgh last year.

The Olympic club, Locey said, has the edge in 10 of the 20 events on the A. A. U. program. He gave the Los Angeles club the shade in seven contests.

Locey said his 25-man team would be headed by Ben Eastman, Stanford university's sensational sophomore middle distance sprinter, and George Simpson, Ohio's erstwhile 100 and 220-yard flash.

Dixie Stars Coming North.

NEW ORLEANS, May 26—(AP)—Emmett Toppino of Loyola university and Don Zimmerman of Tulane, two southerners who have been making new marks in their home territory, have entered the national intercollegiate track and field meet at Chicago.

The nationals will be something new to Zimmerman, a sophomore, but Toppino has competed there before, running third to Frank Wykoff and George Simpson last summer, when Wykoff won the hundred in 9.4 seconds.

The Loyolan has been steadily improving since then. Last Saturday in the Southern A. A. U. title meet, he claimed the crown again by tying his own sectional record of 9.6 in the face of a rather stiff breeze.

Zimmerman has been making history in the pole vault this year, having cleared 13 feet in three meets. Last Saturday in the Southern A. A. U. events, he sailed over 13 feet 3⅝ inches, for a new mark in the south.

Holland Strong For Nebraska League.

Jack Holland's Oklahoma City Indians are running second in the pennant pack in the Dale Gear league and their winning performances during the first month of the campaign indicate—if indications are worth anything at all in professional baseball—that the Holland outfit will be a factor in the race all the way to the September wire.

One unusual phase in connection with the success of the Oklahoma City entry is that Holland has been getting away with it while putting a big share of his eggs in the Nebraska league basket, meaning that Boss Jack has on his playing roster no less than five youngsters that were graduated from the Cornhusker state loop last fall.

The five former Nebraskans are White, Schalk and Schrieber, all Oklahoma City regulars; Logan, a regular pitcher, and Vaughan, utility infielder and pinch-hitter.

Holland made a conditional purchase of still another Nebraska leaguer, Eash, on his tour of the Cornhusker circuit, but Eash refused to report for spring training, so the deal was declared null, in view of which the entry goes into the record that the Oklahoma City magnate made five purchases in the Nebraska circuit and every one of the five has made the class A grade.

Boss of Indians Surely Coming Back.

Meeting up with a Nebraska league official several days ago in Omaha, Boss Holland confessed that he had muffed a lot of fine opportunities to get his hooks on valuable youngsters by not scouting the Nebraska circuit until last summer.

"Until last year," Holland said, "I confined most of my scouting to the Sippi Valley league. I switched in 1930 and am right glad that I did. I never saw so many fine prospects in all my years in professional ball as on my tour of the Nebraska league last summer. Count me as one who is hoping that the Nebraska circuit keeps itself on the map. I am coming back this year and will be a regular visitor hereafter."

Holland, I am advised, is particularly sweet on White, his shortstop, and Schaik, second-sacker. The boss of the Indians, I am told, is confident he will be selling White to a big league club—and for a round price. Schrieber, with York last year, was a bit slow in developing, but Holland, giving personal attention to the training of his youngsters, corrected the boy's batting form and stance, and recently jammed him into the Indians' lineup as a regular outfielder.

Logan, the southpaw pitcher acquired from Fairbury, already has bagged a fancy string of victories and Holland counts on the youngster to keep on with his winning.

"Yes, indeed, I'm coming back to the Nebraska league," Holland assured my informant. "They grow real ball players up in this country."

Pitt Good At Doctoring Weights.

College football still keeps a place for a few coaches who play the old army game of issuing spoof figures of the weights of their players. One of these, I fear, is Jock Sutherland, talented mentor of the Pitt. U. Panthers. Possibly I am in error in mentioning Jock's name, because it is not in any sense improbable that Jock, himself, isn't responsible for the spoofery—possibly the funny work is pulled by dopesters in the Panther camp.

In all events, I recall quite vividly the earful of information handed me by a Pittsburgh newspaper representative during the Nebraska-Pitt clash of 1929—the game in which the Panthers turned back the Huskers in Lincoln by a margin of two touchdowns to one.

The newspaper scribe to whom I refer scanned the Pitt squad's weight figures, printed in the official program, and then proceeded to exude a series of fat chortles.

He called attention to the fact that several Panther warriors, listed as 190 pounds or less in print, actually scaled 210 pounds or more. One of the so-called "lightweights" was Mike Getto, whom the Pitt dopesters all season long persistently had referred to as one of Jock Sutherland's "watch-charm tackles."

Made the Grade As Aid to Hargiss.

To correctly estimate a gridiron warrior's weight, viewing him from the Nebraska pressbox, is one of football's impossibilities. To miss the mark as much as 20 pounds is a common affair. For that reason, I was not unduly impressed by Mike Getto's avoirdupois or stature. I remember, however, that he was present with a bangup article of football, and that he ranked as one of the most aggressive tackles the Cornhuskers had stacked up against in years.

The Getto fellow passed out of college football after the 1929 season and the next thing I heard about him was that he had tied up with Kansas U. as a line coach, after which came the word that he had rendered valuable aid to Bill Hargiss in developing the crew that plucked Big Six laurels during the 1930 championship race.

But last week-end, I met the same Mike face to 'ace, although at the time I had no idea just who he was. The Nebraska athletic management entertained the conference faculty men, directors, coaches and track meet officials at a Shrine club dinner, and it was my rare good luck to be included as one of the invited guests.

Mike All Man, My Word for That.

Seated on my left at the feast was "Genial Bill," meaning Head Coach Hargiss of K. U. And next to the same Bill was a strapping fellow whom the Kansas coach frequently addressed as "Mike." Yes, it was Getto; the same chap whose line play at tackle for Pitt gave the Huskers so much trouble during three successive joustings.

Giving Mike the once-over, and repeating on several occasions, it was a fairly easy matter to decide that Head Coach Lill had picked as one of his assistants a fellow that was all man.

According to my best judgment, the Mike Getto I then saw close up is every inch a six-footer, with shoulders as wide as a prize bull-lock's. His weight? I'm sure he would balance the beam not an ounce short of 210 pounds.

And yet Mike Getto, when wearing moleskins for Jock Sutherland, was merely a "watch-charm tackle." But, at the moment, I can better savvy the joke. I understand Jock is grooming a 245-pounder for one of his 1931 tackle vacancies and when the Cornhuskers invade the Panther camp next November, I suspect the Pitt spoofers will be moaning that Jock has another outfit of midgets.

Boss Refutes Tale of Swap

ST. LOUIS, May 26—(AP)—Rumors of a possible deal between the Cardinals and Cubs, involving Chick Hafey and Hack Wilson, erstwhile sluggers now doing bench duty because of failure to hit often and timely enough to satisfy their managers, had the official denial today of Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals.

Told that such rumors were afloat, Breadon said:

"We don't want Hack Wilson. We're satisfied with our ball club and we don't need anybody."

Asked if the Cubs had sounded him out on the possibilities of a trade, Breadon replied he couldn't "say anything on this, even if they had."

NEBRASKA AWAY TO AGGIE CAMP

Saints' Lead Slashed In Tom Hickey Loop

CHICAGO, May 26—(AP)—St. Paul's current lead in the American association pennant race today had been reduced to a single game. The Saints lost a chance to add a half-game to their margin over the idle Columbus Red Birds by dropping the second game of the series to Kansas City, 4 to 3, in 10 innings.

Milwaukee was outhit, 13 to 10, by Minneapolis, but came up with an 8 to 5 victory to make it two in a row.

Joe De Berry outpitched Alex Ferguson and Bachman to give Louisville a 5 to 2 victory over Toledo.

The weather kept Indianapolis and Columbus idle.

Card Hitting Sours Gabby

ST. LOUIS, May 26—(AP)—In an effort to improve the Cardinals' attack, Manager Gabby Street has ordered daily morning batting drill, effective today. He said the batting practice would continue "until further notice." The team's batting average today was .260.

Although the Cards returned from their first long trip into the enemy's country with a record of seven victories and five defeats and still holding first place, Street was disappointed with the Red Birds' hitting. What chagrined him most was a defeat at Cincinnati Sunday. It was the first victory of the Reds over the Cards since June 1, 1930.

Open Closed to Omaha Ace

OMAHA, May 26—(AP)—Because of tardiness in filing his entry, Johnny Goodman, Omaha amateur golfer, who would have been the only amateur in the country excused from the qualifying round, will not compete in the 1931 national open tourney at Toledo.

Goodman was the top amateur from the 1930 meet after Bobby Jones renounced Simon Purity in favor of the movies. That made Johnny exempt from qualifying for this year's tourney, but he mistakenly believed that his standing made it unnecessary to file his entry with the best of the aspiring golfers.

Goodman discovered his mistake only last Saturday and immediately wired his entry. Yesterday he received a telegram from New York: "Sorry, lists closed May 19."

Federal Judge Rules Carnera Can't Fight In Brooklyn Arena

BY HERBERT W. BARKER.

NEW YORK, May 26—(AP)—Floored by the federal court's temporary injunction that barred Primo Carnera as an opponent, Jimmy Johnston, boxing promoter, began an intensive search today for a suitable rival for Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight.

Federal Judge John C. Knox yesterday granted the request of the Madison Square Garden of Illinois for an injunction restraining Carnera from meeting Sharkey for Johnston at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, June 10.

Court Order Stops Him.

The court order barred the ponderous Italian from meeting Sharkey or any other major opponent without the consent of the Illinois corporation, which holds a contract on Carnera's services until Dec. 31.

Johnston declared he would appeal the ruling.

"That's just the first round," said Jimmy. "You can't win 'em all. But you never saw me quit because I got knocked down once. I'm going to appeal the decision at once and hope to promote a Carnera-Sharkey fight later in the year. Meanwhile I'm busy digging up some one else to meet Sharkey on June 10."

Loughran Says Nay.

The name of Tommy Loughran was suggested, but the clever Philadelphian's manager, Joe Smith, said Tommy was not interested in another bout with Sharkey.

"Tommy has fought his way back to the top," said Smith," and no longer has to beat Sharkey. The match we want is with the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling bout in Cleveland.

With Loughran out, Johnston's next best bet looked to be Mickey Walker, who has been belting heavyweights around in fine style for some months.

Bids for Mickey Walker.

Johnson said he was doing his best to get in touch with Jack Kearns, Walker's manager.

Madison Square Garden of Illinois signed Carnera to a contract calling for the big Italian to battle the winner of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling bout, which is to be held in Cleveland July 3.

The federal injunction will be operative, barring a reversal by a higher court, until trial of the suit instituted by the Illinois corporation to enforce its contract with Carnera.

OMAHA, Neb., May 26 — With the state championship in smashing clay birds to be decided Tuesday, more than 150 trapshooters tuned up in the class options which featured Monday's competition in the Nebraska meet at the Izaak Walton Gun club. The four-day meet closes Wednesday.

Although C. B. McDowell of Phillipsburg, Kans., was high in the doubles with 47 hits in 50 tries, his residence eliminated him in the awarding of Monday's trophy, which was for Nebraskans only. John Gutzmer of Columbus won with score of 46. There was no cash prize in the doubles.

Other class champions in the singles turned in good scores. E. J. Moorhead of Falls City won in class B with 148, I. B. Klotz of Exeter had 146 in class C, F. Turka of Fairbury made a 143 in class D and Dan Whitney of Omaha was first in class E with 144.

Mackmen Sweep On to String Seventeen Wins

Connie's Club Crushes New York Yankees In Both Ends Twin Bill

There was another parcel of bad news today for the large but select group awaiting the official "cracking" of the Philadelphia Athletics. About all Connie Mack's young men appear likely to crack this season is the existing American league record for consecutive victories.

By defeating the New York Yankees in both ends of yesterday's doubleheader at Shibe Park, 4 to 2 and 16 to 4, the champions ran their victory string to 17 straight and staked themselves to a five-game lead over the field. Idle because of rain at Boston, the Washington Senators eased into second place.

Only Two Short of Record.

If they win from the Yankees the next two afternoons, the athletics will tie the American league mark for consecutive triumphs, set by the Chicago White Sox in 1906. In a way, they will have bettered the previous record, as the Sox were held to one tie in setting up their long string.

The most significant feature of yesterday's double win was the pitching of Leroy Mahaffey in the nightcap. The young right-hander, one of Mack's "second string" moundsmen, held the Yankees to one hit for the first seven innings and fanned five. He had nothing to worry about after his mates fitted him out with a nine-run lead in the first inning.

Five In Row for Grove.

Lefty Grove scored his fifth consecutive victory in the first game when he outdueled young Henry Johnson. Twice, with two Yanks on and only one out, he struck out the last two batters.

Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg each has contributed four wins to the Athletics' present streak, while Rommel and Mahaffey each has scored a pair. The odd one was credited to Hank McDonald.

Wes Ferrell had to rush to Willis Hudlin's aid in the ninth inning before the Cleveland Indians could record a 7 to 6 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Ferrell Goes to Rescue.

Going into the final round three runs to the good, Hudlin weakened and put the first two men on base before Ferrell appeared. Both scored while Ferrell was retiring the side. Eddie Morgan hit his first homer of the year with one on in the sixth. Rain halted the only other game scheduled in the American.

The Chicago Cubs pounded three pitchers for 11 hits to defeat Pittsburgh, 9 to 6, in the National league's lone encounter. Les Sweetland went the route for the winners and had only two bad innings.

Yesterday's Stars.

Rogers Hornsby, Cubs—Clouted Pirate pitching for pair of doubles, drove in two runs and scored two.

Eddie Morgan, Indians—Clouted homer with one on to help in defeat of White Sox.

Lefty Grove and Roy Mahaffey, Athletics—Held Yankees to 14 hits in doubleheader as Athletics won twice in stretch winning streak to 17 games in a row.

BIRDMEN FLYING AT PEAK OF PILE

Wichita Regains First Place By Defeat of Omaha Packers.

Wichita's Aviators once more are flying high atop the Western league. While they winged homeward today, echoes of the 23 hits which rattled off their bats last night still lingered in the Omaha Packers' park. Wichita won, 25 to 2, with Lyons pitching as if he was nursing along a one-run advantage.

The Aviators pounded four Packer hurlers to win the game which gave them the series, three to one.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma City descended from the heights at Des Moines, where the Demons pulled a 4 to 3 decision out of the fire with a ninth-inning rally. George Zahn had held the Indians to two hits and one run until the visitors' half of the ninth, when he weakened and, before Tinning, relieving Zahn, could settle down, two runs were across and the score tied.

Bears Turn Back Topeka.

The Denver Bears brought about another change in the standings, defeating Topeka, 7 to 6, last night at Denver to break a last place tie with the Senators and vault to the top of the second division.

The Bears pounded out 14 hits, yet were given a close run for it by the Senators, who made every one of their six safeties count. Denver's climb was at the expense of the idle St. Joseph Saints and the shell-shocked Packers. Pueblo, as well as the Saints, had a day of rest.

LINKS SET BACK IN ROAD OPENER

Bunched Blows Give York Long End of Score In Monday Contest.

York's Dukes, opening the Nebraska league season at their home yard, turned back Lincoln's Links Monday, 9 to 3. Although the Dukes had but little margin in hitting, their total of 13 safe knocks surpassing Lincoln's only by two, the Yorkers bunched their safe thumps off Stowers while Lefty McKain was scattering Lincoln's hits.

After the sixth frame, when the Dukes swarmed through with five tallies, the argument was over. The Links fielded loosely back of Stowers, perpetrating five errors.

McCook and Grand Island also had their home openings Monday, the Generals swamping North Platte, 20 to 5, and the Islanders knocking over the Elkhorns, 12 to 4. The scores:

LONDOS FLATTENS HUNGARIAN HUSKY

NEW YORK, May 26—(INS)—His sensational airplane spin, supplemented by the powerful crunch of a body hold, permitted Jim Londos, Greco, to go about today still claiming the world's heavyweight wrestling title. He defeated Sandor Szabo, rugged Hungarian, in Madison Square Garden last night before 12,000 fans.

Szabo showed surprising strength and the crowd was thrilled as Londos bit the dust when Szabo applied several flying mares. The end came in 35 minutes and 19 seconds.

The Gold & Co. baseball team in the Commercial league broke into the win column Monday evening at the muny field by winning a play-off game from Roberts Dairy by a 9-3 count. The two teams had previously played to a 3-3 deadlock.

There was no doubt as to the ultimate winner in the game from the beginning of the first frame. Preece lived on Wesierski's error and scored on Jake Lebsack's triple over the centerfielder's head. Jake came in on Ralph Leath's single, and Arn Freauf lived on a fielder's choice which failed to nip Leath. Ev Stuermer pushed a double into center field to tally both runners, and counted himself a little later, for the last score of the inning. Golds added another in the second and picked up three more in the fourth. Roberts tallied one in each of the first three cantos. Monday's score:

City Leaguers Mix Tonight.

With the Wendelin-Junior Chamber and Skelly-Star affairs headlining the program, third round games in the City league are scheduled to take place tonight on the same four diamonds.

Junior Chamber and Star, undefeated teams, meet serious threats this evening. Wendelin's flinger, Alex Wacker, turned in a no-hit, no-run game last week and may give the Chamber batters cause for worry. Skelly has a hustling team and is expected to give The Star outfit league-leaders a serious argument.

The Junior Chamber-Wendelin mix will be played at the Twenty-second and J diamond, and the Star-Skelly game will be played at North Tenth. Gooch's Best and the Banks tussle at Muny in what should be a close affair, and the City of Lincoln will clash with the Fraley Post Veterans at Thirty-first and W streets.

All games will begin at 6:15 o'clock, with a 10-minute leeway in case of failure of one of the teams to arrive at the specified time.

DOG TRACK OWNERS PLOT COURT FIGHT

CHICAGO, May 26—(AP)—Attorney Harry Olson, former chief justice of the municipal court, will challenge the constitutionality of the horse racing act in so far as it excludes the racing of greyhounds in a legal fight to be opened this week, he announced yesterday. The contest will be waged on behalf of several dog racing tracks which will be opened soon.

Despite Olson's plans, State's Attorney John Swanson said that "no dog track will be permitted to operate five minutes in Cook county."

TOO MUCH TIMM FOR LINCOLN HI

Wahoo Moundman Holds Capital City Youths To Pair Hits.

Lincoln high school's baseball team was victim of a two-hit pitching performance by Timm, Wahoo hurler, and dropped a tight 3-1 mix to the Wahoo nine Monday afternoon on the Lincoln diamond. Lincoln used three hurlers during the fray.

Timm limited the Horney outfit to a pair of doubles, one each by Wampler and Herb Menne, as his mates were connecting with the offerings of Dietze, Stall and Woods for half a dozen safeties. Timm pitched for the Mead American Legion junior baseball team last summer, which won the state American Legion championship. He was never in serious trouble and struck out nine Lincolnites.

Wahoo took an early lead, getting one run each in the fifth and sixth innings, while Lincoln retaliated with a marker in the eighth, only to have Wahoo ice the game with another in the ninth. Woods was Lincoln's most effective pitcher, while Stall was charged with the defeat. Score:

Irish Battler On His Mettle; Schemes Get Back at Italian Foe

BY LES CONKLIN.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., May 26—Smiling Jimmy McLarnin, whose string of spectacular ring victories was snapped last November when Billy Petrolle handed the Vancouver Irishman the worst drubbing of his career, is going to change his style somewhat in his important return bout with the Fargo, N. D., Italian at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

Petrolle confounded the "Irish knockout king" in their first meeting by coming in with head lowered and elbows high and carrying the fight all the way. When McLarnin jumped away, Billy nailed him with long left hooks.

Proposes Change His Style.

"I think I had better fight him differently this time," observed James this morning, with his quaintly precise enunciation, as he finished his training with light exercises. "I will keep my head down more and stay in closer. Last time I made the mistake of jumping back and was hit by those long lefts. For three rounds of the fight, I was quite dazed."

A change in Jimmy's style was evident as he went through his last session with the big gloves for the benefit of sports writers at Gus Wilson's sylvan retreat here. He did more of the weaving and sidestepping that marked his earlier ring days when he was noted more for his masterful boxing ability rather than his devastating punch.

No Mental Worries.

Jimmy declared that his shellacking at the hands of Petrolle last November will not act as a mental hazard to him tomorrow night.

"I never think of those things," he smiled. "You know I defeated Sammy Mandell and Ray Miller after they previously had beaten me.

"When Petrolle throws a left hook, I will try to beat him to the punch with my right. I'm not going to make the mistake of trying to pull away from his lefts. He is about the toughest fellow I ever fought, but I think I can beat him this time."

Most Modest of Ringmen.

Coming from McLarnin, that remark was the equivalent of "I'll knock his block off" from any other fighter, for Jimmy probably is the most modest performer in the ring today.

McLarnin's chief worry is his hands, which always have bothered him. Last November, Petrolle kept so low and close that Jimmy's sizzling rights grazed the top of Billy's head. The Irishman broke a bone in his right hand in the second round with one of these punches, splitting his right thumb.

In the Pink Physically.

The Vancouver welterweight is in fine shape today. His hands have mended and he has been training with vim and vitality. He is boxing well and has been hitting so hard that three or four sparring partners quit on him during the past two weeks.

McLarnin now tips the scales at 144 pounds. The bout is at catchweights and he has no worry on that score. He weighed 141 for Petrolle last fall and has not engaged in a bout since. He has been hunting, fishing and golfing during the past six months.

Ball Players Today Better, Says Once Famous Pitcher

NEW ORK, May 26—(I.N.S.)—Otis Crandall, famous old-time pitcher, admits that present-day ball players are superior to the diamond greats of yesteryear.

Otis is the famous "Doc" Crandall of another generation. He was a pitcher with the Giants back in the days when the immortal Matty, "Hooks" Wiltse, "Red" Ames, Roger Bresnahan, Fred Snodgrass, "Moose" McCormick Cy Seymour, Buck Herzog—great figures of a great club—were part of McGraw's machine.

"Doc" was one of the greatest relief pitchers in the business in those days and a great pinch hitter—good enough to be used in the pinch by McGraw for four years. That's how he got his tag of "Doc."

Doctored "Sick" Games.

"The writin' boys hung that on me because I helped to doctor up so many sick games," he explains.

That was more than a score of years ago. Since then, Otis has traveled the byways and highways of the diamond trails as player, coach, manager, owner and now he comes back to the big town with a big league club. He is one of the coaches with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Crandall is 44 years old and it was about 25 years ago he joined up with the Giants. A quarter of a century—baseball has changed mightily since then, grown from a swaddling infant to the commercial giant of today.

But baseball has changed for the better, he tells you, and although it might be heresy for an old-timer to say as much, he believes the present generation of the ball players are better than the old crop.

Better Trained Now.

"They get better training, better preparation, are better conditioned and have better surroundings," he explains. "In the old days it was hard to keep a battling gang in shape, now it's part of the system."

The biggest difference between the game today and yesterday—that's a cinch.

"It was a more scientific game in the old days," he said without hesitation. "McGraw would work for a single run back in those days, and that lone tally might mean the ball game. But today, say, that's a laugh. It's power today, the ability to sock. Any bush leaguer can make the big league grade so long as he can hit the ball out of the park."

Crandall has a son, James, now 18, going to the University of Southern California. The body is a pitcher. Like his old man, and is making a baseball tour of the Orient.

Stocks Fluctuate Erratically Tuesday And Close With Mixture Of Gains And Losses

Rally Turns Weak In the Last Hour

U. S. Steel Drops to New Low at 93¼, But Closes Point Higher.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 26

The stock market fluctuated erratically today, and closed with a mixture of gains and losses.

The announcement of another inquiry into bearish activity by the stock exchange's committee on business conduct caused flurries of uneasy short covering, but failde to check scattered selling.

There was a substantial rally during the middle of the afternoon, but turned weak in spots in the last hour. Trading was in moderate volume, transfers exceeding 2,000,000 shares by a substantial margin.

U. S. Steel dropped about a point to a new low at 93¼ in the morning, but recovered to close a point higher, and Bethlehem was firm. "American Metal Market," however, estimated that steel production had fallen another 2 points to about 42 per cent of capacity. American Can surgel up 4 points, and closed up 2. American Telephone and Woolworth gained 2 net. Vanadium lost 5, Lambert 4 and Worthington and Mack Truck, 3.

Unfavorable developments in foreign markets, such as the suspension of a small London stock exchange house and a sharp decline in the Berlin market, were without notable influence in Wal street. The selling in Berlin was attributed to Vienna, which is said still to feel the unsettling effects of the difficulties of the credit anstat.

Despite the better tone in the New York market, however, brokerage circles remained rather gloomy over prospects to the near futue. Rebounds have a way of bursting forth explosively when sentiment is gloomiest, and board room comment would lead to the conclusion that the market is in a perpetual decline. But more conservative traders are disinclined to follow explosive upturns, particularly at this time when second quarter earnings statements are in the nearby offing, and are confidently expected to make some discouraging reading. Nevertheless, there is a growing feeling that the list is getting near the bottom.

Yesterday's advices indicating that the motor industry has its seasonal peak brought further selling in the automotive shares during today's early trading. Current estimates of General Motors second quarter results indicate that the dividend requirements for the first six months of the year will be fully earned, despite the deficiency in the first quarter. The normal seasonal trend in the industry, however, does not promise so much for the remainder of the year.

The weekly petroleum statistics, on the basis of preliminary figures, will be less favorable than those of the preceding week, when the large decline in crude output was achieved. A further cut in East Texas crude prices has been made by Humble, but there is some talk of an increase in California, and Royal Dutch's annual report is less gloomy over the American situation than some domestic interests seem to be, despite the large losses recently suffered by Royal Dutch's American subsidiary.

The stock exchange made feeble response today to the news that the exchange's committee on business conduct had inaugurated a general inquiry into bearish activity.

After a sag at the opening, the list perked up considerably, only to run into fresh selling toward midday, in which North American and Allied Chemical were chief sufferers. North American declined 3 points, and Allied Chemical lost an early upturn of 2 points and sold moderately under.

U. S. Steel fluctuated uncertainly, after recording a new low at 93¼ in the first few minutes. Norfolk & Western lost 5 points, and issues off a point or two included General Motors, Radio, Paramount and Studebaker. American Can, American Telephone and Case partlly retained 2-point advances.

Call money renewed at 1½ per cent.

A new stock exchange bear taming campaign brought a recovery in share prices today, after a further sag in the first few minutes of trading.

By the end of the first half hour, a few shares showed gains of a point or two, and early losses were modified.

The exchange's committee on business conduct sent a questionnaire to members demanding full information about short position. While the stock exchange is not opposed to short selling in theory, it is opposed to abuses of it, and such a questionnaire makes bears cautious.

American Telephone and Case advanced 2 points, and American Can and Allied Chemical advanced nearly as much. U. S. Steel recovered after sagging a point to a new low at 93¼, and Eastman eased an initial loss of 2 points.

Miscellaneous shares losing 1 to 2 in the early selling included American Tobacco B, Electric Auto Lite, Paramount, Union Pacific, Standard Gas, and Studebaker. Norfolk & Western lost nearly 5.

Sterling cables were reactionary, opening at $4.86⅛, off 1-16.

Wheat Values Lifted Sharply

Close is Unchanged to 1⅞c Higher; Corn ½ to 1⅞c Up.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 26

Increasing reports of severe drought conditions in Canada and of diminishing crop prospects in Kansas lifted wheat prices sharply late today. It was asserted that 9,000,000 acres of the 22,000,000 acres of wheat land in the Canadian provinces were in need of immediate rain. A Chicago crop authority just returned here from Kansas expressed belief that Kansas this season would raise only 158,000,000 bushels of wheat, approximately the same as last year, whereas recently traders have been figuring on 200,000,000.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to 1⅞c higher, May old, 82½c; July, 60½@60¾c. Corn, ½ to 1⅞c up, May old, 55¾c; July, 56¼@⅝c. Oats, ¼ to ⅝c advansed, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Grains advanced early today after an irregular start. Reports of dust storms in Canada and of wheat crop deterioration in Kansas were largely responsible. Opening ⅞ cents off to ⅛c up, wheat rose all around. Corn started ½c lower to ¼c higher, touching a new bottom price for the season, but subsequently scored general gains.

Canadian advices of high temperatures and strong winds, with continuance of dust storms predicted, brought increased anxiety regarding drought damage to spring wheat, and gave incentive to buyers. Bulls laid stress also on telegraphic reports from a Chicago crop expert that between Colby and Norton, Kas., wheat showed short stram, was thin on the ground and needed good treatment up to harvest to make a fair yield. Nebraska messages said that unless rains were received within the next four or five days, the wheat crop situation would be serious, that fields looked brown, and stubble wheat would be plowed under.

European wheat crop reports, as well as domestic and Canadian, favored believers in higher prices. Damage by frost in the Balkans was confirmed, central Europe and Spain were too dry in many sections, and Italian and French crops backward. Corn and oats advances with wheat, after price downturns early in corn as a result of favorable weather conditions over the corn belt.

Provisions were responsive to weakness of hog values.

A bullish factor in corn as smallness of receipts here. Chicago arrivals totaled but 50 cars, compared with 174 on the corresponding day last year.

Commission house buying caused a bulge of 1@1¾ cents from a bushel in corn from the day's inside figure, with shorts covering freely on the early rise. Strength in wheat and a strong technical position were the main influences. Weather over the west was generally favorable for the completion of corn planting and some cultivating was said to be under way in Iowa. Country offerings were small and shipping demand rather slow.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 26

The curb market contained fewer air pockets today, although its tone was still heavy. Pressure was withdrawn from some of the issues which broke widely yesterday and a ripple of covering ran through the list in the forenoon, but the upward move was indecisive and small declines predominated during the greater part of the session. Trading was more active than on Monday.

The opening was heavy. Electric Bond & Share sold at the new low of 28⅝ on the first sale of 5,400 shares, while Cities Service lost half a point in a 10,700 share transaction. Other active issues touching new minimums included Aluminum of America, United Light "A," Northern States Power "A" and Swift International.

De Forest Radio extended yesterday's advance in the early trading. Speculative attention was directed to the issue by the Supreme court patent decision. Pilot Radio, whose quoted value was almost cut in half by the sharp break of the previous session, steadied but turned dull. There were small declines in Lake Shore Mines, Pan-American Airways, Cord and Deere. Stutz Motor sagged more than 2 points. Mead Johnson, International Safety Razor "B," Schiff Company and Fajardo Sugar firmed.

Oils were quiet, easing slightly. Standard of Indiana sold at a new low.

Investment trusts were mostly inactive. A few large blocks of United Founders traded and the stock was heavy.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

OMAHA, May 26.

CATTLE—Receipts of cattle were liberal here again today and while other points had smaller runs, trade on killing classes opened very dull; scattered early sales mostly on light weight steers and yearlings were barely steady to just a little lower, but many early bids were fully 25c lower than yesterday; one load of prime heavy steers brought $7.25 and some choice yearlings made $7.50; she stock also was draggy; there were not enough stockers and feeders here to make a market.

Close: Cattle receipts, 7,800; largely a fed steer run; market slow, uneven; mostly bids around 25c lower; fee early sales of choice longfeds steady to weak with Monday's full decline; she stock uneven; lower grade cows steady; light heifers about steady; heavy heifers, beef cows and bulls wak to 25c lower; vealers weak to around 50c lower; stockers and feeders scarce; bulk fed steers and yearlings $5.50@6.75; choice 1045 lb. weights $7.00; strictly choice 1308 lb. weights $7.25; several loads of choice yearlings $7.00@7.50; heifers $5.50@6.50; bulk beef cows $3.50@4.50; cutter grades $2.75@3.50; medium bulls $3.00@3.50; practical top vealers $8.50, odd head to independents up to $10.00.

HOGS—Salesmen were unable to check the sharp decline in the hog market today; heavier receipts combined with the lower trends at other markets were responsible for further losses of 25@35c; clearance levels are the lowest in many years with today's bulk at $5.00@5.85; and top $5.90; packing sows $4.25@4.75.

Close: Hog receipts, 15,000; slow, unevenly 25@35c lower; top $5.90 on sorted 180-200 lb. lights; bulk 160-220 lb. weights $5.65@5.85; 220-250 lb. butchers $5.50@5.65; 250-290 lb. averages $5.25@5.50; bidding downward to $5.00 on 350 lb. weights; packing sows $4.40@4.60; smooth light sows up to $4.75; odd lots feeder pigs $5.75@6.00; average cost Monday $5.61, weight 256.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR PLANE CRASH VICTIMS TUESDAY

WAYNE, Neb., May 26—(AP)—Funeral services for Guy Strickland, 42, of Wayne, and Wayne Putnam, 21, of Naper, who were killed in an airplane crash near here Sunday, are to be held Tuesday. Rites for Strickland are to be held at his home, and those for Putnam at the Naper Lutheran church.

Strickland had taken Putnam for a ride. Witnesses of the accident said the plane went into a tail-spin at an altitude of about 350 feet. The ship burst into flames when it hit the ground, and the bodies were badly burned. Strickland was a partner in a garage here, and is survived by his widow. Putnam was a student at Wayne Normal college.

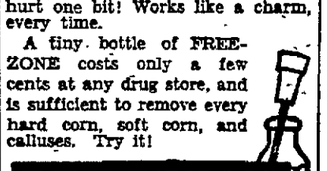

Corns

Stop Hurting Instantly

then Lift Right Off!

Drop FREEZONE on that aching corn. Instantly it stops hurting; then shortly you lift the corn right off with your fingers. You'll laugh, really! It is so easy and doesn't hurt one bit! Works like a charm, every time.

A tiny bottle of FREEZONE costs only a few cents at any drug store, and is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, and calluses. Try it!

BRIAND NOW EXPECTED TO RETAIN POST

French Statesman Believed to Have Decided To Stay in Cabinet.

COLLEAGUES URGE HIM RECONSIDER

Announcement Expected To Be Made After Wednesday Meeting.

PARIS, May 26—(AP)—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand is described by Echo de Paris as having decided not to resign from the French cabinet.

The newspaper says that notwithstanding his defeat in the presidential election he would heed the request of retiring President Gaston Doumergue and President-elect Paul Doumer and continue his work in behalf of pan-European cooperation.

M. Briand tendered his resignation to President Doumergue after the unexpected victory of M. Doumer at Versailles, and it still is held in abeyance. An announcement is expected after the cabinet meeting tomorrow.

Petit Parisien which, unlike Echo de Paris, is favorable toward the foreign minister, says it is uncertain whether he will yeld to the appeals of his colleagues, but that "it can already be said M. Briand will put the personal question aside and act according to what he considers in the interest of his policies."

HORTON IN FRONT ON SHORT COURSE

ARBROATH, Scotland, May 26—(AP)—Americans showed to advantage today in the approaching and putting "championship" being played on the Elliott course as a preliminary to the British open championship at Carnoustie next week.

"The "championship" is a test of the short game and consists of four rounds over a 3,000-yard course, where every hole is a "one-shooter" and par is 54. A prize of $2,500 has been set up for the professionals.

Horton Smith was best among the early finishers today with a par 54, his card showing three twos. Tony Manero of the Norwood Country club, New Jersey, had a 57; Tomasco Genta, open champion of the Argentine, 59, and Joshua Crane, the American-born Londoner, 68.

A team of amateur boxers from this country will go abroad in September to meet teams of Germany, Italy, Spain, Denmark and Sweden.

THE WEATHER.

Disturbances are central over North Dakota and Utah and pressure is also low off the New England coast. High pressure prevails over the Lake region and to the southward and off the north Pacific coast. Light rains occurred within the past 24 hours at scattered points in the northern and middle Mountain states on the north Atlantic coast, and locally over the middle portion of the Great Central Plains, the Ohio and middle Mississippi Valleys. Temperatures are below normal in the Northwest in the Lake region, and along the Mississippi Valley and are above normal over the remainder of the country.

Chicagoan Accused of Huge Swindle

John (Jake the Barber) Factor of Chicago surrendered to face charges of swindling British investors out of millions in an alleged fake stock scheme. He is shown with his wife. He will fight extradition to England.

DEMPSEY PLANS JOURNEY TO L. A.

Intent Only On Business; Denies Mission Is To Call On Estelle.

RENO, Nev., May 26—If he can find time between bear hunts and prize fight promotion, Jack Dempsey will return to his former home city, Los Angeles, within a few days, it was learned today.

According to the former heavyweight champion, however, his visit will be a strictly "business affair" and will relate only to disposal of his holdings at Ensenada, Lower California.

Dempsey is now a full fledged resident of Nevada. He has completed six weeks of residence and has a witness to prove that he was in Reno every day for that period. He may file his divorce proceeding whenever he pleases.

Free to Travel Now.

Residence, when once established, is not jeopardized by brief business or pleasure trips to other states.

Reports that his contemplated trip to Los Angeles might involve a reconciliation with Estelle Taylor, his screen actress wife, or negotiations for a property settlement with her were denied by Dempsey.

"The trip will be solely in connection with my Esenada interests," Dempsey said.

"As for my divorce proceedings, they will be filed at the proper time and I have nothing further to say on that score."

From Hollywood came word that Jack would have to see Estelle's attorney if he had any business with her.

Bear Eludes Him.

Dempsey dropped business with a thud when he heard a 1,200 pound bear has been sighted in the mountains 20 miles from here.

The "Manassa mauler" promptly headed a hunting party that left for the wilds with intention of tracking the bear to its lair.

Bruin apparently saw Jack first, and the party returned with only the bear's claw, which inadvertently had been left in a trap on the Lewis ranch.

RACING STARTS ON LAKE CITY TRACKS

CHICAGO, May 26—(AP)—Sweep All Charles Fisher's crack three-year-old, which finished second to Twenty Grand in the Kentucky Derby, goes to the post in a $1,500 handicap at one-mile at Washington Park today, engaging three other thoroughbreds: Maya, Nostaw and Bargello. Sweep All will carry 102 pounds, lightest weight of the quarter.

Tannery, a big chestnut horse, which failed in most of the three-year-old fixures a year ago, won back some of his lost prestige in the opening of the 30-day meet at Washington Park yesterday by winning the Washington Park Handicap, a dash for six furlongs, carrying $5,000 added. Tannery won by five lengths from the favorite Don Leon, paying 18.06 to win.

The Washington Park opening drew a crowd of 15,000 to welcome the thoroughbreds back to metropolitan Chicago. Racing will be continuous at the four Chicago tracks until Oct. 31.

Skeets Farley, Wes Virginia university football star, will be an assistant coach at Marshall college.

RIDING ON TOP PENNANT WAVE

Connie's Club Seemingly Has Cinch On Another A. L. Gonfalon.

BY COPELAND C. BURG.

NEW YORK, May 26—One of those ancient Greeks, who had a word for everything, said tht those who want fewest things are closest to the gods, which today would toss Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics right up on top of old Mount Olympus, under a purple sunshade and lemonade at every hand.

For having severely trounced their so-called chief rivals, the New York Yankees, not only once, 4 to 2, but twice, 16 to 4, there seemed nothing in the world for the A's to do but ride the crest of their dazzling drive and coast on through the summer to another American league pennant. The double triumph stretched the Mackmen's winning streak to 17 games.

Plight of Yanks Pitiful.

The critics said if the Yanks don't stop 'em this week, the Athletics would be in again and the most the king of charity could say about the New Yorkers in their stopping efforts was that they were pitiful to the point of tears, wails and the grinding of molars.

Lefty Grove, who hurled himself to a magnificent victory, his fifth straight, in the opening act of the debacle, did things most pitchers are content to ponder of in heir dreams. With the runs that would have tied up the game on base, he fanned the great Babe Ruth and his only slighlty less celebrated pal, Lou Gehrig.

A's Bats Make Music.

A triple by Cochrane which cleared the bases and another triple by Boley with two on were the important smashes that produced nine runs for the A's in the first inning of the aftermath. Mahaffey gave the New Yorkers six hits against 16 passed here and there by a trio of Mr. McCarthy's lionhearted moundmen.

Combs, Yankees gardener, connected in both shambles and emerged with a string of 24 games in which he has hit safely. Simmons of the A's trailed him with 23 games.

WAR MOTHERS PARTICIPATE

PARIS, May 26—(AP)—American gold star mothers will participate in Memorial day ceremonies at five cemeteries in France. Sections of the mothers parties left today for the places where their sons are buried and some will remain until after May 30. Mrs. Gertrude Olsen of Hayti, S. D., is still in the American hospital, continuing to improve after a second blood transfusion. She is under treatment for an intestinal ailment.

PAPER MILL WILL CLOSE.

LISBON FALLS, Me., May 26—(AP)—The local mill of the Pejepscot Paper Co., will be closed permanently July 1, Superintendent Fred Hall announced today. Unfavorable market conditions and Canadian competition were given as reasons for the shutdown, which will affect 100 employes. The company's mills at Topsham and Pejepscot will not be affected.

BANK TELLER AIDS BANDITS TO STAGE $12,000 ROBBERY

PONTIAC, Mich., May 26—(AP)—Gerald F. Grandon, a teller of the Pontiac Commercial & Savings bank, confessed early today, police said, that he was the instigator of a robbery of the bank last Friday morning in which $12,000 was taken.

Grandno yesterday was accused by Louis Kish and Adam Morgan, who carired out the robbery, of planning the details and signalling them when the time was opportune. Kish and Morgan were arrested Friday night at Toronto after they escaped across the border in a stolen airplane.

The robbers, who have pleaded guilty, said Grandon outlined how the robbery should be carried out, gave them a plan of the bank buildnig and provided a key to an employes' entrance from which they had a duplicate made.

BOARD HOLDS UP FIGHTERS' COIN

Lawless Decisions Dark Man, But Must Wait For His Money.

CHICAGO, May 26—(AP)—Bucky Lawless, Auburn, N. Y., welterweight, today was credited with his third victory in four starts over Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., negro, but both fighters had not received their purses for their latest engagement.

After their 10-round bout in the Chicago Stadium last night, General John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission, ordered their money withheld, pending an examination of Jones' right hand, which Jones claimed had been injured, keeping him from doing his best. Lawless, although he was floored for a nine-count in the fifth round, finished with a comfortable margin over Jones.

Retzlaff Stops Diebolt.

The 10-round co-feature resulted in a decision victory for Ray Miller, Chicago left-hooker, over Danny Delmont, another Chicago lightweight. Miller was much too experienced for Delmont.

Charley Retzlaff, heavy-punching Duluth, Minn., heavyweight, was awarded a technical knockout victory over Tiny Diebolt of Cleveland, after two minutes and 17 seconds of the first round. Diebolt apparently was unable to do anything but stop Retzlaff's punches with vital parts of his head and body.

Wesley Ramey, promising young Grand Rapids, Mich lightweight, punched out a decision in eight rounds over Johnny Jadick of Philadelphia, after a slow start.

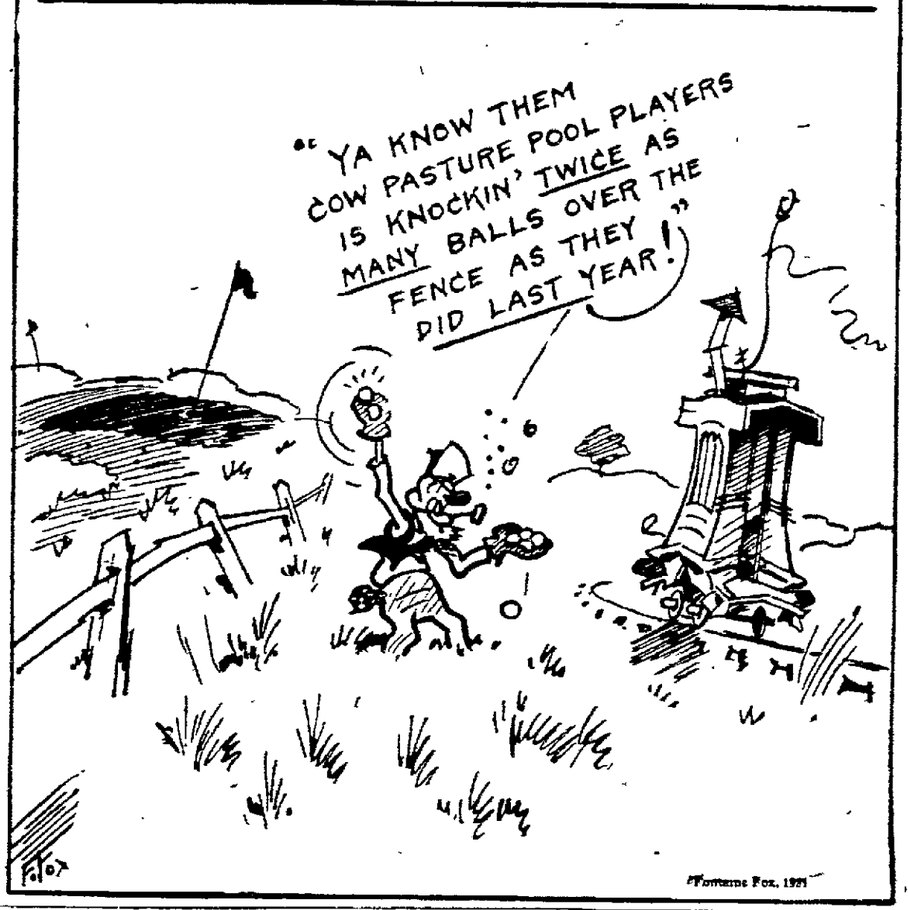

'WAR HANGOVER,' SAYS KNUBEL

SEATTLE, Wash., May 26—(AP)—Dr. Frederick H. Knubel of New York, president of the United Lutheran Churches of America, told the Pacific synod's annual convention here last night that controversy over birth control was but another "hangover from the World War." "It is of prime significance that the present agitation for birth control occurs at a period which is notorious for looseness in sexual morality," he said. "That fact creates suspicion as to the motives for the agitation."

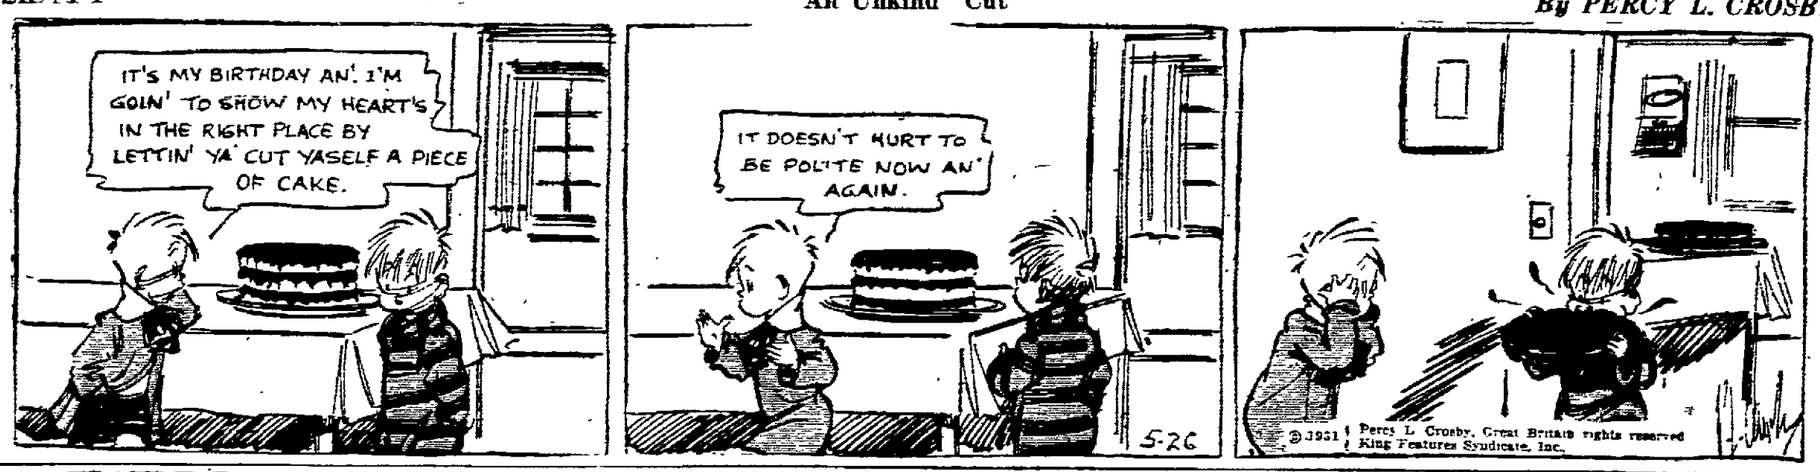

It is estimated there are 6,000,000 hunters in the United States.

MINERVA'S MAIL

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Assumed Proportions.

Dear Minerva: You are asking for opinions as to married women working. Many, like "46" imagine that all married women who are working, are doing so from preference. This subject has assumed such proportions as to cause one legislator to be so foolish as to propose bills to control it. When news of such intentions reached the ears of business and professional clubwomen there was immediate action. The workers delved into the reason, for and against, gathered all available statistics as to why married women worked, how many, the capability of most married women in offices, etc. Then they sent their ablest representatives before as many clubs and organizations as possible to impart this information, also to write to their congressman imploring him to halt such a foolish and harmful measure. As a result, the offices of several congressmen were swamped so with protesting mail that the author of the bill left town and the bills were thrown out.

Of the 100 per cent of married working women, it was found there were 94 per cent who absolutely must support their dependents. Only 6 per cent worked for selfish reasons; would rather doll up in the morning and decorate an office than stay in their own nice home; wanted extra money for personal luxuries; and a few immoral philanderers.

Throwing out married women (or single ones either for that matter) will not solve the unemployment problem, only complicate it.

Many of these women are college graduates with years of experience who are far more valuable to an employer, than a green young thing either male or female. Then too, these women who have children are much better mothers for the modern times.

After all has been said (if that be possible,) the matter is a personal one and simply cannot be legislated. But any time that a person thinks that women must leave their offices and get back to darning socks it is very necessary to think again. That milestone has been passed; there is no such returning.

Yours for the deserving, capable and efficient married women worker—HAS BEEN.

Reduced Living.

"The cost of living would be greatly reduced if women would adopt standard styles of dress, as the men have, instead of having to have an entire change of wardrobe each season," writes Tom. What a ghastly thought. The world would be a dreary and dull place indeed, if all women were to wear uniform clothes. Such a plan would certainly not please any woman, and very few men, I'm thinking.

Policing Our Minds.

So often we merely drift along before the whims and caprices of the mind, never exerting our authority over it, and seldom, if ever disciplining it or giving it regular exercise to do.

"Mrs. G. L." writes of her very great worries, and as I analyze them, they are mostly figments of the imagination, or at best, worries which could be kept out of the mind through the exercise of will power.

Cecil John Rhodes, one of the outstanding empire builders of all time, led a strenuous life of battles, colonization, pioneering. He had plenty to worry about, if he permitted his mind that doubtful luxury. He is quoted as saying "In the midst of all these problems, I find relaxation, peace and comfort in dreaming of my future plans."

He could have spent his time in worrying, but he knew this would never solve his problems. Problems can be solved. Even our cares and responsibilities can honorably be carried with much compensating spiritual value to us, but worry demoralizes our forces and prevents us from solving our problems and from carrying out responsibilities as we should.

We must police our mind, set a guardian upon that inner workshop which will permit only thoughts to enter which are valuable to us. We must examine carefully all that enters our mind and carefully exclude that which is harmful.

Quick Decisions.

Definite and quick decisions are important. If two tendencies are of the same strength, neither will conquer. The individual will stand or rush about in a helpless manner, giving vent to the emotion which cannot express itself in appropriate action. The classical illustration of this is the case of the starving donkey who is half way between two bales of straw and thus has a conflict in which both sides are exactly of equal strength. The result is that neither side can conquer, so he dies of starvation. It is better to make a wrong decision and try this out than to remain in a state of indecision and vacillate between this and that.

His Possessions.

Dear Minerva: I began reading your column just lately and have derived much from it. Your answers have done a lot to help those who are in need of someone to confide in and so I am taking this opportunity to state my case.

To begin with I suppose you will want to know a little about me. I am eighteen, considered nice looking and have always had my share of friends. Not long ago I met him. He is nice looking, has a neat appearance and good manners. He has a new car and makes good money. Now my people have always had money and at one time we even owned a yacht. My folks are divorced now but even so mother and I have a lovely apartment, very nice clothes, etc. So when this young man said that I was going with him because of his car and the money he makes I just couldn't help feeling hurt. Do you think he is really worth going with or what?—PERPLEXED.

A. It would seem that the young man was suffering from an inferiority complex if he thinks you are attracted by his possessions and not by him. I wouldn't take it too seriously.

NANCY PAGE

BY FLORENCE LA GANKE.

Lois Often Uses Good Canned Foods For Ann.

Lois was in the large grocery store. She was checking her order as she gave it to the clerk. "One can of spinach, one of carrots, a jar of that specially prepared puree, and another of the vegetable soup for babies." Before she could go any further a woman beside her broke into the conversation. "Do you believe in using those canned foods for small children? My daughter is two years old and she never has had anything but fresh vegetables."

Lois stopped her order to talk to the woman. "Why, yes, I do. My daughter, aged a little over a year, has her spinach puree made from canned spinach and frequently I use these prepared purees when I am too busy to put the foods through the sieve. My doctor says that canned foods are often made from fresher foods than we get when we buy the shipped vegetables in our markets.

Then, too, he says that heat, moisture and oxygen do queer things to some of the vitamins in foods. But canned foods which are quite free from contact with oxygen while they cook have not been affected at all.

The clerk echoed what Lois said. The other woman seemed relieved to think that such products were on the market. "Of course," Lois said, "I use fresh vegetables when I can get them—really fresh ones, but it is sometimes difficult, as you know."

As the women walked out together, Lois was going over the items in the diet of her baby—well dried bread, a quart of milk, vegetable puree, baked potato, orange juice or tomato juice, well cooked cereal, apple sauce or prune pulp, an egg yolk and a small amount of butter. That is a safe diet for a normal healthy child of twelve to eighteen months.

TWO JOBS OPEN ON FARM BOARD

McKelvie and Teague Leave in June; Schilling Likely to Stay.

No Indication Who Will Fill Vacancies; Several Mentioned.

WASHINGTON, May 26—(AP)—Two well paying positions on the farm board will be available between the first and the fifteenth of June for men with good ideas about agriculture

Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member, and C. C. Teague, vice chairman and fruits and vegetable specialist, are leaving.

A third, William F. Schilling, dairy member, is expected to be reappointed when his term expires June 15.

Several names have been advanced to President Hoover, but so far he has given no indication of who will fill the two vacancies.

McKelvie Quits June 15.

McKelvie, now in London where he represented the United States at the international wheat conference, will retire to his Nebraska farm when his term expires on June 15. He and Schilling were named for a two-year period.

His colleague Teague was appointed for one year. Last June he agreed to remain six more months and at the end of that time he was prevailed upon by Mr. Hoover to stay six more.

He leaves June 1 for his Santa Paula, Cal., home and citrus fruit business.

Schilling has indicated he would accept reappointment.

Third Change on Board.

The departure of McKelvie and Teague means the third change on the board since its formation July 15, 1929. Alexander Legge, chairman, quit in March after serving beyond his term and went back to his $100,000-a-year job as president of the International Harvester company.

Sam H. Thompson, former president of the American Farm Bureau federation, filled the vacancy, James C. Stone being elevated from vice chairmanship to head of the board.

Burdette C. Lewis of Florida has been suggested by some of his state's delegation in congress for appointment to give the southeastern section representation. Several other names also have been put up.

Catches 239-Lb. Fish

PIKE CREEK, Ont., May 26—(AP)—Ulric Suzor, a fisherman, came home here today with a whopper of a fish story, and, just to back it up, he brought the fish along.

Ulric found a 239-pound sturgeon, believed to be the largest ever caught in Lake St. Clair, in one of his nets off Pike creek. He towed his prize catch to the dock and moored it. A lot of people came down to see it today.

Ulric was so proud of his catch that—with Sturgeon selling at 20 cents a pound— he offered it to the Detroit aquarium, at Belle Isle.
